

Three Found Shot

Bodies of Ontario
Trio in Gully

LONDON, Ont., May 12 (CP)—The sharp eyes of a nine-year-old boy led to the discovery of three persons shot to death in a lonely gully near the Muncey Indian Reserve.

Dead are Mrs. Lydia Riley, 64, of Muncey; her niece, Mrs. Beatrice Henry, about 30, and her husband, Herman, about 32, of Christina.

A party of London fishermen found Mrs. Riley's body which had two wounds in the chest and one in the head. The boy, Billie Morryles, found the body after he spotted the bright-green of a woman's dress in the drab underbrush from the car in which he was riding. The side road runs along the gully, just north of the reserve, 15 miles southwest of London.

Several hundred feet away, the other two bodies were found by Harold Whitting, of Muncey. Both Mr. and Mrs. Henry had bullet wounds over the heart.

Police said there were indications the bodies of Henry and his wife had been dragged into the gully, opening the possibility they had been shot some distance from the gully.

The bodies were sent to Victoria Hospital, London, where post-mortems were conducted by Dr. John Fisher, pathologist.

Police disclosed no motive for the slayings and there were no reports of the weapon used being found. They moved into the reserve last night and about six officers were working on the case.

Lyle Riley, son of Mrs. Riley, said he last saw his mother and the Henrys when they left his Muncey home at 3.30 a.m. Sunday.

He said he believed his mother intended to go to the home of another son, Sam, and it is believed the Henrys were going to their home.

B.C. Hospital Ordered to Pay $44,000 Claim

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—The Vancouver General Hospital today was ordered to pay $44,000 damages to the dependents of Gordon Arthur Fraser of Vancouver.

The Supreme Court of Canada dismissed the hospital's appeal against decisions of British Columbia courts, awarding damages to the widow, son and mother of Mr. Fraser.

Mr. Fraser was involved in a motor car accident in Vancouver March 8, 1949. He was taken to hospital, but was dismissed within a few hours by two internists after they had taken X-rays.

The following day, Mr. Fraser's own doctor examined the X-ray plates and found that his patient had suffered a fractured neck. Re-admitted to hospital, Mr. Fraser died a few days later.

Mrs. Fraser launched action against the hospital, claiming damages on the grounds that the internists had been negligent. The Supreme Court of British Columbia and the British Columbia Court of Appeals upheld her claim. The Supreme Court of Canada concurred in the decisions.

Mrs. Fraser sued for $30,000 for herself, $10,000 for her son and $4,000 for her mother-in-law.

Seizure Before Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Lawyers for the administration and the vast steel industry open oral arguments before the Supreme Court today in an historic effort to settle finally whether President Truman's seizure of the steel mills was legal.

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge David A. Pine, who ruled that Truman's seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike, was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

Soccer Leaders Argue Over Team Selection

United Manager Hostile Over Decision To Play All-Stars Against Tottenham

By BILL WALKER, Times Sports Editor

A searing attack on B.C. Football Association officials by George Eade, manager of Victoria United of the Coast Soccer League, today over policy regarding the selection of a team to play Tottenham Hotspurs here June 2, drew a prompt and equally withering reply today from Pat Mulcahy.

Mulcahy is Island commissioner of the B.C.F.A. Eade charged B.C.F.A. officials with possible "disruption of United as a club that has been winning on team spirit as well as its football ability" by not according to a request of United to meet Tottenham as a unit, rather than part of an all-star club.

"Any dissension in football ranks" over the selection of an all-star team "is coming from within Victoria United and not from without," Mulcahy replied.

(See Story Page 8)

"Tours of this nature are conducted on a basis of soccer promotion," Mulcahy added. "It is not a club matter at all."

"United's arguments don't hold water. On the mainland, an all-star team has been picked from four clubs and there's no problem there."

"The policy of picking an all-star club from the Island is not disrupting United in any way. All members of the team can train with the all-stars, and were told that in Sunday's meeting," Mr. Mulcahy continued.

GIVEN ULTIMATUM

Mulcahy also revealed that following a meeting of United players last week, he was approached by Eade and given what was tantamount to an ultimatum: "It is the desire of United to play as a team or we don't play."

"Vancouver officials of the B.C.F.A. were notified of United stand," Mulcahy continued, "and realizing the possible repercussions, Coast League president Jack Hendry attempted to contact Eade to advise him of the seriousness of the situation."

"It left the commission no alternative," Mulcahy said, referring to the possible suspension of United.

"When informed of this decision, Eade unconditionally withdrew the request on behalf of the team."

"However," Mulcahy continued, "persistent rumors which could not be ignored continued to crop up during the past week and Sunday's meeting was called for a 'showdown.'"

"Some members of United Anscomb ain't th' only political speaker who's left his audience in th' dark. Except in Herb's case it was due t' a power failure."

India Congress Elects Nehru

NEW DELHI, May 12 (Reuters).—Prime Minister Nehru Sunday was elected leader of the National Congress—the majority party in the new parliament which begins its first session Tuesday.

The Congress, which aims at the creation of a welfare state, unanimously voted him to the position he held in the old parliament.

The next few days will see the installation of the first fully-elected president, inauguration of parliament and the swearing in of members.

Who'll Succeed Stalin?

FIRST OF FOUR DISPATCHES BY NEA'S MOVING CORRESPONDENT IN EUROPE ON THE DEADLY GAME BEING PLAYED BEHIND KREMLIN'S WALLS TO WIN STALIN'S LEADERSHIP WHEN HE DIES—THE CROWN OF RUSSIA AND THE RED WORLD.

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 12 — In the midst of conflicting reports about the failing health of Joseph Stalin, ruler of Soviet Russia and world Communism, the 72-year-old dictator turned up in Moscow this spring for a rare public appearance.

Dispatches, cleared by Soviet censors, said the premier looked fit and vigorous. But it was the first time he had been seen in Moscow since the Lenin memorial meeting in January.

A satellite diplomat who saw him then said afterward that Stalin seemed aged, tired and ravaged with disease. It is a known fact that he is suffering from a heart ailment. Soviet experts in Europe believe the rumors about his failing health are probably true.

Apparently he is not well enough to make his usual frequent winter trips to Moscow from his retreat at Sochi, 700 miles away on the Black Sea. Even top-level Politburo conferences are reported to be held there now.

Stalin is a Georgian, one of a sturdy half-Primitive people that boasts more centenarians than any other of the numerous nationalities that make up the Soviet Union. But even Georgians are mortal.

Should Stalin die who is likely to succeed him as ruler of world communism?

Who in the Communist underworld can inherit the legendary glory with which the master of the Kremlin surrounded himself during his lifetime?

As yet, little credible information has come out of the secret chambers of the Kremlin. But the Cominform underworld—where the grapevine is frequently faster and more accurate than the controlled press—is seething with rumor.

Members of Stalin's immediate entourage are reported to be cautiously manoeuvring in anticipation of his death. There is even talk of a schism inside the all-powerful Politburo.

Cominform chiefs—in the East or in the West—must know in advance who is likely to be their next boss if they are to keep their jobs.

Many owe their present positions to the fact that they rallied in time to Stalin's side—while he still engaged in mortal combat with Leon Trotsky and other early associates of Lenin.

Those who recall Stalin's own climb to power during Lenin's long illness see a familiar pattern in the intrigues, heresy-hunting and purges now taking place in the Cominform and behind the Iron curtain.

Russian-trained Slansky was for years a trusted agent of the Kremlin, the Politburo's eyes and ears in the Cominform. Yet like Traicho Kostov in Bulgaria, Laszlo Rajk in Hungary, and other devoted Stalinists behind the Iron curtain, he is facing "liquidation" by firing squad.

Why? Is it because Vyacheslav M. Molotov, in his bid for Stalin's mantle, seeks to consolidate his strength in the Cominform by supporting Slansky's rival and bitter enemy, Czech President Klement Gottwald?

This is the prevailing view in many western Cominform circles.

Were Kostov and Rajk executed by the secret M.V.D. because they were adherents of the late Cominform boss Andrei Zhdanov?

Zhdanov was widely regarded as the man designated by Stalin as his successor. But he was held responsible by Georgi M. Malenkov—another rising candidate for the Red throne—for the break between Marshall Tito and Stalin.

As Cominform chief Zhdanov apparently failed to "liquidate" Tito in time.

The 50-year-old Zhdanov died suddenly in 1948 under mysterious circumstances. Two entirely different communiques announcing his death were issued by the Kremlin—one within a few hours of the other.

A top French Communist leader has since told me that Zhdanov committed suicide. The Frenchman himself was involved in the Stalin-Tito "affair."

Zhdanov chose suicide rather than fight it out and eventually face an M.V.D. firing squad.

A bloody purge of "Zhdanovists" in Russian and in the Cominform followed.

With Zhdanov dead, three members of the Politburo are considered likely successors to Stalin—Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Georgi M. Malenkov and Lavrenti P. Beria.

They are the most powerful men in the Politburo. They are

Six-Country European Army Brings Reaction

BONN, Germany, May 12 (AP)—West Germany's impending peace contract brought a bloody week-end battle to industrial Essen and reports today that East Germany's Communist rulers are getting ready for a drastic set-up in the cold war against the west and tighter Russian-East German ties.

One young Communist was killed in the Essen riot, in which police gunfire broke up a clash between anti-Reds and 30,000 Communist-led youths demonstrating against plans to rearm West Germany for Western defense. Scores of demonstrators were injured and several were arrested.

Here in the capital, meanwhile, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met with rebellious leaders from his government Coalition forces. Their opposition to the peace pact threatens its chances of ratification by the West German Parliament.

Despite Adenauer's urging, the opponents were reported still adamant that Britain, the United States and France concede more before West German troops are furnished for the projected European army. The Allies already have said they have gone as far as they will.

As the talks on the peace contract continued in Bonn, informed east-zone sources in Berlin said that Communist-surrounded metropolis has been chosen by the Russian and East German leaders as the focal point of their campaign against the Western agreement.

These sources anticipated that the East German government may soon demand the unification of divided Berlin and withdrawal of all occupation forces from the metropolis. This, the sources added, may be accompanied by "drastic measures" against West Berlin.

They predicted also that East Germany soon may be declared a "people's democracy" like other Soviet satellites and that its government may be shaken up to weed out anyone not in accord with the full Sovietization of the east zone.

'HANDS OFF' POLICY OVER DOUK ACTION

Probe Closure of School at Hilliers

The provincial department of education is expected to adopt a "hands off" policy towards the decision of Hilliers Doukhobors to stop sending their children to school.

The Doukhobors, who call themselves the Christian Community of Reformed Doukhobors, have asked stoppage of family allowance payments as a result of the school closure. The children are working in the fields.

School Inspector Claude Campbell is expected to investigate the situation at the settlement this week.

His powers, however, are limited because the school is a private institution operated by the Doukhobors themselves. They built the school when they moved to Hilliers from Crestova after breaking away from the radical Sons of Freedom sect.

The school closure is believed to have been ordered because the settlement's elders are slipping back to their old beliefs since the death last year of their leader, Michael (The Archangel) Veregin, who instituted the school.

The Public Schools Act gives local school boards, in this case the Qualicum School Board, authority to levy fines for each day children are kept out of school. It is not known if the board plans such action.

FIRST OF FOUR NEWS REPORTS EXAMINES SOVIET HEIRARCHY

part of Stalin's "inner cabinet" charged with the conduct of Russia's global hot-cold war. Together, or separately, it is they who will decide the question of world peace or world war should the aged and ailing dictator die.

Stalin has been acting as a sort of fatherly "moderator" between the warring factions.

By resorting to his traditional "zig-zag tactic," Stalin has managed to rotate his three crown princes in the limelight without, however, giving any one of them too much power inside the Politburo.

The aging dictator obviously wants to prevent the type of coup d'etat he himself engineered when Lenin was on his deathbed.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Just for old times' sake, "Scotty" Woods wandered down to the Gorge Bridge in the light of early evening, leaned on the rail and looked over at the space where the old "Free" used to be. Downstream a crew was rowing a four-oared lapstreak. "Scotty" was buried so deep in memories he didn't notice a stranger who came up to stand beside him until the stranger spoke.

"They look a bit ragged, don't they?" he asked.

"Scotty" agreed, saying they probably hadn't been at the game long, and then went on to reminisce about the old days at the Gorge and the enjoyment he'd found there 30 years ago.

"Me, too, Scotty," the stranger said. "And it's just about 30 years since I looked over the old place. Maybe you remember me—Art Boyd."

"Scotty" was talking about the meeting a while later. "Funny, y' know, somebody starts recalling the old Gorge days and it all comes back, like looking at pictures."

A Touch of Magic

For a lot of us in that generation, the P.N.A. gave us our first look at an Olympic champion. He was a slim kid who always shivered in evening exhibitions, no matter how soupy the water might be. But to us a kind of aura clung around him—Louis "Happy" Keuhn, who came up from Portland to win the northwest springboard diving championships from Archie McKinnon here.

You look back with a kind of wonder at the image you made of "Happy." There was a magic about him—the magic an Olympic champion gave to a man seen through the eyes of a boy. And you wonder a bit, too, if the same magic exists for the present-day youngsters looking at, or thinking of, an Olympic champion.

The Olympics looked so far away and remote to youngsters of our generation. They might have been held on a different planet and the people who competed in them weren't ordinary mortals. The thought of making an Olympic team was made of fairy tale stuff. It didn't seem real. You just dreamt about things like that.

Years later you might have met "Happy" Keuhn, when you'd grown up and "Happy" was a little older. You couldn't help feeling a little surprised that the dapper professional man from Portland was "Happy" and that he was human, very human.

Does the Light Still Shine?

You can't help hoping that kids today feel a little the way your generation did when they think about the Olympics, seeing them with a shining idealism. And because you know that they aren't all dream stuff, that Victorians have gone to the Games, you sort wish you could help some local youngster reach that goal.

If you happen to feel that way, Lawrie Wallace will give you a practical suggestion. Lawrie doesn't pretend to develop athletes of Olympic calibre. But he'll tell you that there are nearly a dozen performers in this town who have their hearts set on the Olympics and intend to go east to the Canadian trials.

He'll tell you, too, that Victoria has been asked to provide $1,000 by public subscription toward the Canadian Olympic fund to help those young athletes along. It's one way you can do something about the dreams you had of Olympics when you were a kid—if you had those dreams of the Olympics.

Compromise Suggested Over N.A.T.O. Command

WASHINGTON, May 12 (Reuters).—Admiral William Fichteler, United States chief of naval operations, said today a possible compromise is being studied to resolve Anglo-American differences over the Allied command in the Mediterranean.

He told a press conference he has no idea what is the basis for an article in the Paris newspaper, Le Monde, which said he wrote a report that forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization might be driven out of western Europe within a few days should Russia attack.

He said the whole concept of being completely driven out of western Europe is so fantastic that he had never given it serious consideration.

Fichteler returned from western Europe last week after discussing the Mediterranean command with British, French and Italian chiefs and with General Eisenhower.

He said he is not at liberty to say what are the differences between British and U.S. leaders regarding the Mediterranean command. He also refused to disclose the nature of the proposed compromise.

Any solution would have to be agreed to by the 14 members of N.A.T.O., he said.

Symphony Eyes Books Askance As Grant Lost

Pre-Season Ticket Sale Encouraging

Victoria Symphony Society's financial statement will be revealed Wednesday in the light of the lost City Hall grant.

Season ticket holders, as well as all those interested in the society's future, will be welcome.

A new board will be elected. President J. F. K. English is retiring.

The civic grant of $1,000 last year was to have been doubled, the society hoped. Instead, it has been deleted.

Means of raising funds will be discussed. An encouraging report of advance sales of season tickets—850 so far—may ease the society's position, temporarily. But additional funds will be needed.

Soviet Policewomen Recruited in Army Along With Men

East Germany's Communist rulers celebrated the seventh anniversary of Nazi Germany's surrender in Berlin by changing the name of Liberation Day to Defense Day. At the same time Otto Grotewohl, East German premier, announced that his Socialist Unity (Communist) party are forming an army to defend the Soviet zone against "American and German imperialism."

Grotewohl's warning came as Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, and the Western high commissioners were putting the finishing touches in Bonn to the contract which will make West Germany a sovereign member of the free world. East Germany already has begun recruiting for its "armed forces" and it is believed the government will soon proclaim establishment of a national army. Western diplomats feel that the "army" is just a new name for an old situation. It has been known and accepted for some time that an armed force, at least 50,000 strong, has existed in East Germany in the form of the "people's police," so organized that it is capable of rapid expansion. Allied officials believe the belligerent tone of East German statements are aimed to prepare East Germany's 18,000,000 people for the new rearmament move.

Seattle 'Hit' By Giant Blast

Exploding Meteor Likely Explanation Of Rumble; Blue Light, Fireballs Seen

SEATTLE, May 12 (BUP)—Responsible observers believed that a blinding blast which rocked Seattle may have been an exploding meteor, but talk of "flying saucers" and "guided missiles" could be heard on any street corner.

Meanwhile, the military was deep in a thorough but close-mouthed investigation. An intelligence officer at McChord air force base near Tacoma said an official statement may be released later today.

Thousands of startled residents were awakened at 1:30 a.m. Sunday by a blast which "rumbled like a freight train." The eerie, blue-white light was seen at an estimated elevation of 2,000 feet and was visible 60 miles away.

The explosion occurred directly over north Seattle and was witnessed by many persons, including Northwest Airlines pilot Bert Carlson. He said he first sighted "an object" as he prepared to land at Seattle-Tacoma international airport.

"It was about 7,000 feet when it suddenly shattered into eight pieces which looked like chain lightning. Fireballs trailed to the earth," he said.

Sidney Howick, a weather observer at the airport, described it as a "sort of lights-on, lights off thing. It lasted two seconds at most. Everything turned blue." He also said he saw fireballs falling to earth.

J. H. Pruett, Pacific regional director of the American Meteor Society, said it could have been a huge meteor, "but if it was a meteor, the estimated altitude of the explosion was far too low."

He said meteors normally explode more than 10 miles above the earth.

All observers agreed the mysterious object was traveling from southwest to northeast when it blew up.

Thief Gets Cash As Householders Sleep Undisturbed

Theft of $83 was reported to city police Sunday by Frank Stuart of 1148 Mason.

Stuart told police the money was taken from a bedroom while he and his wife were asleep. Two motorists reported the theft Saturday of a number of articles from their cars.

Rodger Traill, 1702 Duchess, said a car jack, shock absorber, blanket and tow cable were taken and Herbert Leason, 1031 Clare reported the theft of a steering wheel cover, a tail pipe and radio aerials.

Navy, Army, Air Force Cabinet Heads Mooted

Claxton May Get Three Helpers When Premier Shuffles Cabinet; Losses May Be Reason

By BRIAN O'LEARY
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, May 12—Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent may soon appoint three new cabinet ministers to help Defense Minister Brooke Claxton administer his department, it was said here today.

This would be the direct result of recent disclosures of looting from military camps, it was said, as well as fires in military establishments now suspected as sabotage.

The defense department recently admitted that it has lost over $7,000,000 from fire, theft and fraud over the past two and a half years.

If the prime minister does appoint three new ministers to help Mr. Claxton, the move would come when Mr. St. Laurent next shuffles his cabinet, expected sometime after the present session of Parliament.

While all three would have cabinet rank, they would still be under Mr. Claxton, who would be responsible for national defense as a whole. The three new ministers would subdivide the defense department, one taking over the navy, one the army, and the third the air force.

It is said such appointments are being urged by some finance department officials alarmed at the seeming lack of ministerial control over spending by an expanding armed force.

They do not necessarily blame Mr. Claxton for this alleged lack of control over military spending, it is said. What finance department officials blame is the present administrative set-up.

At the moment, Mr. Claxton is the sole minister responsible for national defense. One minister for this department has been the rule since the recent war as part of the government's unification of the services policy.

Finance department officials say a one-three cabinet defense set-up would mean a more effective control over military spend-

DOOMED—The Supreme Court of Canada today dismissed the appeal of Henry Malanik of Winnipeg, sentenced to death for the murder of a detective James Sims. The decision was unanimous.

Malanik was sentenced to be hanged after a Court of King's Bench jury found him guilty of shooting detective Sims in the abdomen in Winnipeg July 15, 1950.

POOR-BAH—Albert Strauss, 54, of Bruderheim, Alta., is a man of many jobs. This was demonstrated Saturday night when a $30,000 garage fire threatened to wipe out a large portion of the town of 350 population, 33 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Strauss is the mayor, fire chief and police chief of the town. He got his men to the fire. When it threatened to get out of hand he decided, as mayor, that it was his duty to appeal for assistance from firemen in neighboring communities.

When Strauss considered later that there was no more danger of the fire spreading he went back to his hotel bachelor quarters. Ten minutes later he was patrolling the downtown area in his police uniform.

BUS STRIKE—At Seattle management and union spokesmen said Sunday they believe settlement of the Pacific Greyhound bus strike in San Francisco will set the pattern for ending Pacific Northwest Greyhound Lines bus strike.

The settlement in California will form the basis for talks between the company and the union which will open here tomorrow. The same issues are involved in the two disputes.

The Northwest Greyhound strike affected 1,400 workers and service stopped from Bellingham, to Portland and as far south and east as points in Utah and Montana.

The strikers demanded six days' pay for five days' work.

DROUGHT—Because of a devastating drought in the northern territory, Australia will have no meat for Britain after she meets requirements to the British colonies, the Melbourne Age says today. The newspaper estimates the drought, reported to affect an area as big as Europe, will upset cattle supplies for the next 10 years.

DEMONSTRATION—Tunisian Nationalists threw grenades and shouted anti-government slogans in demonstrations Sunday night against members of the new Tunisian cabinet of Salah Eddine Bacouché.

Four grenades were thrown during demonstrations outside Bacouché's home and outside that of Agriculture Minister Abdel Aziz Menchari. Three policemen were slightly wounded.

RESERVISTS—The first of six mass parades of Canadian army reserve force troops to be staged throughout British Columbia was held in Vernon Sunday afternoon. Eight interior units paraded before Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, G.O.C., Western Command.

DUST—There's hardly a speck of dust on new British motor cars bound for New Zealand these days.

New Zealand has asked that all trace of soil be removed from the cars before shipment to prevent the spread of Britain's dread outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

OCCUPATION—Canada, already paying large sums to maintain servicemen in Korea, Germany and Britain, expects her military bill in Japan to go up considerably in the next few months.

It is anticipated in Ottawa that when final agreement on the status of foreign troops in Japan is made, Canada will have to pay for a number of facilities she has been getting free because of her technical status as an occupation power. Canada has a reinforcement base and an administrative unit in Japan and her troops go to hospital and take leave there.

Eagle Ladies Honor 'Mother' Of Auxiliary

Mrs. G. Holland, "mother of the ladies' auxiliary," was honored Sunday in Beacon Hill Park by F.O.E. Aerie No. 12, as the personification of all mothers.

Fine weather and a good attendance contributed to the special Mother's Day ceremony.

During the ceremony a presentation was made to Mrs. Holland by Shirley Taylor in the presence of Eagles, members of the ladies' auxiliary and others.

Another touching Mother's Day ceremony took place Sunday morning when six sailors from H.M.C.S. Naden petty officers' mess visited residents of the Aged Women's Home.

They had arranged for huge baskets of flowers to be sent for each table in the dining room, and on arrival brought a huge cake, a gift from the mess.

The ship is Ss. Reg III, which has been loading lumber up Island and will finish for sea here.

In port today are Ss. Demer-ton Temple, Inn and Mossel Bay.

FIRST, AN ENGINEER

Professional Laurels Came Before Film Mother's Fame

Dr. Lillian Moller Gilbreth is an engineer.

But to the thousands who read the book "Cheaper by the Dozen" and the millions who saw the movie of the same name, she is fondly regarded as one of America's most famous mothers.

Dr. Gilbreth spent the weekend here after attending the Engineering Institute of Canada convention in Vancouver.

At 74 she is still an active engineer, who heads the Gilbreth firm started by her late husband and who has written 10 books on engineering.

Her family of six sons and six daughters became famous when two of them wrote the best-selling novel of life in the Gilbreth home—a story that has caused Dr. Gilbreth to answer thousands of questions of the rearing of large families in addition to carrying on her work as an engineer.

The holder of three degrees, the famous mother has also led a distinguished career in her field and last year was named for a two-year term on the 12-member civil defense advisory committee in the United States. In the 1930's she was appointed to the president's emergency committee for employment and unemployment relief.

An erect, grey-haired veteran of the home and business scene, she prefers to be remembered first as an engineer, second as the mother of "Cheaper by the Dozen."

Prince Rupert Newspaperman Dead After Ramp Collapses at Kemano Bay

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., May 12 (CP).—A veteran newspaperman was killed Saturday in a fall on to jagged seashore rocks when a ramp collapsed at Kemano Bay, B.C.

Two other men survived the 29-foot plunge.

Dead is Alex Hunter, 52, managing editor of the Prince Rupert Daily News, a member of a party traveling to the dedication of the Kenney Dam in British Columbia's Cariboo country.

In hospital are John F. Magor, publisher of the News, and J. D. (Jack) McRae, 36, of Prince Rupert, a member of the last B.C. Legislature.

The R.C.M.P. said an inquest will be adjourned until the two injured men, both reported in good condition, are able to give testimony.

The party left here by seaplane, landing 85 miles to the south at Kemano to pick up an official also bound for the dedication on the Nechako River.

After the plane landed, the three men preceded the main group down the ramp leading from the seaplane landing floats to the dock.

Suddenly the ramp collapsed, spilling them on to rocks bared by the outgoing tide. Mr. Hunter received head injuries and died half an hour later.

Mr. Magor, who suffered two broken ankles, said Mrs. Hunter and another woman were only six feet behind them when the ramp gave way.

The government and business leaders who came to the damsite from all parts of B.C. did not learn of the accident until hours after the dedication ceremony honoring Lands Minister E. T. Kenney.

Mr. Magor was flown to hospital here. Mr. McRae, who

Prominent Prairie Man Dies Here in Retirement

Joseph A. Merrick, 86, a prominent wholesale hardware merchant of Winnipeg before his retirement in 1927, died Sunday at his home 3000 Uplands Road, after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Merrick was a member of the firm of Merrick & Anderson, Winnipeg.

He was born at Mille Isles, Quebec, the youngest son of Rev. Joseph Merrick and Mrs. Merrick. He was educated in Montreal and moved to Winnipeg with his parents in 1887.

He married Kitty Goulter of Portage la Prairie.

Mr. Merrick was a member of the Manitoba Club and St. Charles Country Club, Winnipeg.

He served as rector's warden of Holy Trinity Church there for many years.

On his retirement he moved to Victoria, where he served on the advisory board of St. John's Anglican Church for some years.

He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Dorothy at home and Mrs. Christopher Usher, 1066 Oliver Street, Victoria. His only son, Goulter, predeceased him in 1938.

Funeral service will be held at the family residence, Tuesday afternoon with Canon George Biddle officiating. Burial will be in the family plot at St. Luke's Cemetery, Cedar Hill Road.

UNSNAGGING FISH LINE

Father Loses Life Trying To Save Son From Drowning

FRUITVALE, B.C., May 12 (CP).—A father and son were drowned Saturday in the Columbia River after the boy slipped while trying to untangle a snagged fishing line.

Charles Noble, a non-swimmer, jumped into the water in an attempt to rescue 14-year-old Andy Noble and both were caught in the swirling eddies of the river.

They had been fishing from the shore at a point near here where Beaver Creek empties into the Columbia. Their bodies were recovered Sunday by R.C.M.P. Fruitvale is in Southeastern British Columbia, 10 miles east of Trail.

Noble, in his early 50's, is survived by his widow, five daughters and four sons. He was employed by the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company at Trail.

The Great Change

SOME PEOPLE MAY REGARD THE depression in our fishing industry, the threat to our lumber industry and the loss of our overseas apple markets as purely British Columbia problems. In fact, they are only the local symptoms of a world-wide process, and that process has only begun.

No one can accurately forecast the prospects of the world economy. Since the war the best experts, in making their predictions, invariably have fallen flat on their faces. But two facts, at all events, are perfectly clear: First, Canada, and British Columbia especially, cannot escape any change in the world market, for better or worse; second, the world market is now in the first stage of a basic shift after an unexampled inflationary boom.

This does not mean that anything like a world depression is developing. On the contrary, if the great trading nations approach the new situation intelligently we can look forward to a period of increasing general wealth. The clear and present danger is that, in attempting to avoid the readjustments now necessary, the trading nations will diminish world trade and precipitate a general collapse.

In this situation, Canada must face the obvious fact that the easy seller's market of the postwar years is turning into a buyer's market. The prices of many basic commodities are beginning to fall. The market is becoming more choosy and competitive. Competition certainly will be increased as such productive exporting nations as Germany and Japan press their goods upon the market, not to impoverish but to enrich it by expanding the total supply available to the people of the world at large.

Canada must meet this new competition which is inescapable. It must suit the price of its exports to the ability of the buyer to pay. It may disguise the fact for a time by the mere manipulation of money and the redistribution of income between various groups, but in the end it must satisfy the market if it is to sell its goods and maintain its industries in full production.

This will certainly compel some readjustment in export prices in those industries which otherwise will price themselves out of the market.

Already, indeed, some industries close at hand, among them the B.C. fishing industry, have largely priced themselves out of the market. Fish cannot be sold at present prices.

The timber industry, on which the whole economy of British Columbia lives, is in danger of the same fate. Temporarily supported by a British contract, it can sell its product at prices, incredibly enough, higher than those received by the United States.

When the British contract ends in September, we have no assurance that Britain will continue to buy in the present volume. It is impossible to believe that Britain will buy at the present price.

Finally we shall have to sell fish, lumber and all other exports at the world price or stop selling, with devastating consequences here.

It is thus time for industry to reconsider the high structure of production costs which it could afford in a seller's market but cannot afford in a buyer's market.

In re-considering its costs industry is faced by two fixed charges which, so far, it has been unable to alter.

On the one hand, about 50 per cent of its profits go in federal taxes and in most cases it must also pay high provincial and sometimes municipal taxes. All these levies are a fixed item of cost, reflected in price.

On the other hand, the major cost of all production, the cost of wages, is still going up. At the very moment when industry faces a downward readjustment of prices, the labor unions in many industries are demanding higher wages which can only push prices upward or, alternatively, may reduce industrial operations and employment as they have done already in some areas.

All three partners in industry, government, owners and workers, will have to ask themselves where this process leads. The fourth partner, which is the public, will pay the bill if the operating partners are unable to reconcile their affairs with a new situation which no single nation can possibly control.

If we go on imagining that the world climate is unchanged, if we suppose that we can always sell anything at any price, if we continue to raise our production costs, if we refuse to face the facts, we can price ourselves, quite unnecessarily into a grave position.

At the moment candidates for political office who ignore such facts, who make reckless promises which no government can fulfill, who promise a perpetual boom in British Columbia regardless of the state of the world, may fool the public temporarily but they only aggravate the basic trouble. They will have to face it ultimately in office.

Not an Empire to Itself

PARLIAMENTARY ACTIONS LAST week on the planned C.N.R. branch line from Terrace to Kitimat, and on the extension of New Westminster's harbor facilities, serve to draw British Columbians' attention to the impact of this province's boom on the Canadian economy.

The news items emphasize the fact that while development is proceeding in the far west and ostensibly will be of prime benefit to this province, major projects of such a nature are a matter of national concern and importance.

The railway line owned by the people of Canada foresees immediate returns from the Alcan undertaking as soon as stock begins to roll. Similarly the trade moving in and out of the country through improved facilities at New Westminster will be part of the life blood which gives Canada greater economic health.

Rich natural resources, coupled with a government which encourages the entry of finance capital to develop them, have brought British Columbia high prosperity and wide expansion. These are processes which spread their benefits throughout the nation. As that is understood, national cohesion is increased.

The facts, obvious enough as they are, need to be stated occasionally to remind British Columbians of their partnership in the larger Canadian family. It is too easy, in good times, for people of this province to think in terms of regional interest only, to narrow their perspective to the territory which lies between the Pacific and the Rockies.

As we participate in our unparalleled boom, it is wise to give thought to less encouraging times, when the strength of Canada has helped to sustain British Columbia—to times when federal resources helped this province to overcome such misfortunes as the Fraser River flood of recent memory and lessened the severity of depression conditions in the '30's.

British Columbia has every reason to be proud of the advances it is making through current industrial activities. But there are no grounds to permit that pride to foster regionalism. This province is not an empire to itself. It is a part, an increasingly important part of Canada, and enjoys much of its present growth to a Canadian way of life which permits development to proceed as it is doing at present.

A Change in Outlook

THE ACCEPTED BELIEF, EXTENDING back over many generations, that the normal condition of the British Isles was intended to be of the milk and honey variety has been receiving critical examination in England.

One such critic is George Schwartz, a columnist for the Sunday Times, who has been writing a series of articles designed to present the stark facts to the average Briton.

Schwartz points out that the land area of the United Kingdom is less than 2 per cent of the globe's surface. On that basis, he asks whether Britons are not now, in the midst of their austerity, already receiving their fair share of the world's goods. Instead of finding the people happy with their lot, he claims they are "more peevish, cross and splenetic" than if they had been wandering for 300 years in the wilderness.

"Over half the population," says Schwartz, "is persuaded that it has had a raw deal from history, and is forever retelling its ancient wrongs." Still poised precariously on the verge of subsistence, it sees at every turn a conspiracy to push it over at the week-end before the football results come out."

At the basis of Mr. Schwartz' criticism seems to be the growing attitude of people—not confined to Britain—that "the world owes me a living." A heavy and rapid onset of socialist welfare programs under the recent Labor government cannot fail to have contributed to that feeling in the United Kingdom.

But it would be unfair to overlook the fact of the Briton's long siege of self-denial, with emphasis on the voluntary nature of his deprivation. Unfair, too, to dismiss without due credit the essential background of Britain's present plight—her outstanding sacrifices in two world wars which were fought not only for herself but for humanity.

And we cannot overlook that Mr. Schwartz, despite his Teutonic name, is exercising the traditional British prerogative of grumbling at his fate, complaining about his neighbors, and taking a dim view of all the unpleasant facts in sight.

Mr. Schwartz is not prepared to deny there will always be an England. But he's resigning himself to the belief that it won't always be what it was.

Another of Spring's Miracles

ON THE WATERS OF GOODACRE Lake, Beacon Hill mallards are again leading their broods of ducklings. It is an old spectacle, yet it is new each season.

To the ponds come visitors, young and old, to enjoy the freshness of the sight provided there. For a time the simple chapter in the story of waterfowl is all engrossing. Here is presented the wonder of new life, the continuing links in the chain of a species that runs back through history and will, barring calamity, continue far into the future.

But it is not on the life cycle of mallards that the visitor's mind dwells as he watches the mother and her small offspring paddle about the pond. To the visitor the sight is delightful enough. Late spring has disclosed another of its treasures, and the human heart is lighter for seeing it.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

WHEN I studied singing, a quarter of a century ago, I was supposed to attend countless little recitals. At many of these, some young man or old girl would pop up and sing a ballad about "Give a man a horse he can ride! Give a man a pipe he can smoke!" and so on. They were always asking the audience to give away horses and pipes and things. I don't know what the big idea was. Well, I

Brock switched on the radio last night, and by golly, some young fellow-me-lad was asking me once more to give him a horse. Or give the horse to some deserving friend of his... he didn't make it clear who the recipient was to be.

TWENTY-FIVE years ago I refused once and for all to give gift-horses to anyone, and I still abide by that vow. If you give a man a horse he can ride, he'll simply look the gift-horse in the mouth. Let him buy his own horses. And that goes for his Cadillac also. I'll give him ten cents for a cup of coffee, but that's all.

A REAL EDUCATION ONE of the most valuable lessons a child can learn is to be patient when his cynical pals call him a liar for telling the truth. No child has learnt this lesson yet. But it would be valuable if one of them did learn it. The other day one of my small sons noticed that the big schoolroom map of Canada had Brock Island (in the very far North) on the right spot and with its right name. (Some maps are a little sloppy about Brock Island.) My boy told the teacher and class that Brock Island was named after his grandfather. Which is true. Stefansson named it after my father, who had been Director of Geological Survey and Deputy Minister of Mines.

THE teacher was politer than the children, but you could tell she didn't believe this awful lie any more than the jarring little hyenas did. Instead of being amused, my boy came home cross. This was an unfortunate attitude of his. There are few private jokes more delightful than having an audience of wise-guys assuming that all your absolute facts are lies. Of course, it adds to the joke if the swallow over your lies while rejecting your facts. As Mark Twain and others found out long ago, to their private detriment. And if they hadn't got merry about it, it would have driven them nuts.

DETECTION I WAS reading a rather feeble detective story, "Death at the Opera," by Gladys Mitchell. Quite an old Penguin Book. The detective in this yarn is a bit of an old pun, too, and a female one at that... a not (to me) convincing old duck named Mrs. Bradley. Mrs. B. goes round detecting to beat four-of-a-kind. But there's one thing she failed to detect. On p. 135 she says "No, I fear the diary for purposes... nefarious ones... of my own." The text says that she "screamed joyously" over this little joke about her nefarious plans. And yet, on p. 156, a woman says to her "Nefarious, I call it, don't you?" and the text says "Mrs. Bradley, who had never used the word in her life, again assented." What sort of detection is this, Inspector? They won't like this down at the Yard.

LOOK WHO'S TALKING IN A LETTER to a pal, I complained about the great lack of eccentricity totem. The world is poorer for our lack of freaks. (I'm quite serious about this, in my freakish way.) He replied: "I wonder if it's true that we have no freaks left. I often think so, but then remember my friend in a certain Navy. He was sent to work in an establishment he'd known as a junior officer, and he said to a chum 'There aren't any of those silly old sea-dogs there used to be here.' To which his chum replied 'Don't you realize that WE are the silly old sea-dogs now?' Something in that, I dare say. Watch your age, boys."

MATCH BOOKS ONE of my neighbors, in common with many of yours, now uses match books with her own name printed on them. I suppose this is to keep her from stealing other people's matches by mistake. I once knew a man (obviously a rich one) who had his name printed on his cigar-bands. This increased his pleasure in his smokes somehow. It seems to me that a host or hostess could be far more ostentatious by having the guests' names printed on the match books... that's what we old-ad-men call personalized service.

And of course, for casual callers you could have little anonymous match books just saying "So glad you dropped in." Heavens, the match book might be able to revive the old glories of the conversation-lozenge... those Victorian candies with messages on them such as "I love you, Girlie." You could hand a girl a match book saying "I'm burning with passion for you."

Most things have a limit. But not cute ideas... they go on and on.

Sex Trend

Ottawa Citizen

The 1951 census has revealed a trend during the last decade toward parity of the sexes in Canada. Males now outnumber females by the smallest margin in the nation's history—102 to 100. In one province, Quebec, women already outnumber men. There, the ratio changed from nearly 101 males to every 100 females in 1941, to only 99 males to every 100 females in 1951.

Going westward from Quebec, the ratio of men to women increases from 101-100 in Ontario to a peak of 110-100 in Alberta, the last stronghold of the male, apart from the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

In British Columbia, the trend toward parity of the sexes is the most apparent. There, the ratio tumbled from more than 113 males to every 100 females in 1941 to 105 males to every 100 females in 1951.

As Our Readers See It

SEPARATE SCHOOLS

Mr. Cavin, writing in the Times May 5 under the above heading, evidently overlooks the viewpoint of other denominations in regard to subsidizing Roman Catholic day schools.

As far as I know, no other denomination seeks such subsidization, and if you look at it from another standpoint, the act of running such separate day schools is an act of boycotting the public school system of the country as a whole. If all denominations did the same thing, there would be no public school system at all.

It should be remembered that it is the policy of a foreign state, namely the Vatican, that separate schools should be established, and where the Vatican controls the majority of the voting power, there is short shrift for other religions.

COMBINED OPERATIONS

It seems to me that this city is now growing up and we should act as such. We have a fire department, a police department, a public works department and a parks department, with a lot of men all working to one end but yet separated by different unions, and expecting the same basic wage and paying the same taxes on their property.

And yet we are being forced to close down a fire hall to economize. Now if we were to decentralize and make every firehall a police station and department for public works and boulevards we could economize, as the boulevard watering hydrant could be used as a first aid for fire hazards.

The firemen who are only wanted when a serious fire threatens could take over the beats near the station for the police, who could assist the firemen when a very serious fire occurs, thus obviating taking on more police as the present force would police farther away from the stations.

CRIME COMICS

I read with great zeal in the Victoria Daily Times where the New Zealand Government anticipates discussing the banning of sex and crime comics, after widespread protests from educationists, booksellers, religious and women's organizations. I am positive that they will be taking the right measured step towards the betterment of the backbone of their nation, namely the children.

It is a pity that the Canadian Government hadn't set the precedent for abolishment of these cheap, adulterated sex and crime, so-called "comics." If I am not mistaken, this topic was brought before the House a few years ago, but apparently shelved.

The present generation wonders what is happening to their youth. Time and again one picks up the newspapers and reads where juveniles are brought into court from small misdemeanors to murder. The largest percentage of these youth are inherently good, emanating from good Christian homes, but were inspired by the cheap crime and sex "comics" of today.

I am under the impression that the

A nagging wife in the home may cost a husband his life on the highway. This grim theory was advanced at the recent annual meeting of the Greater New York Safety Council. At that meeting the medical director of a New York bus company was able to demonstrate statistically that men whose home life is filled with irritating family problems are the ones most frequently involved in automobile accidents.

Storm Warning Over Europe

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

From Washington

FOR the first time in a good many months, the storm warning is being officially displayed. The Kremlin has invited us to stop the business of making peace with Western Germany, and bringing an armed Western Germany into the Atlantic community. In order to begin discussing the reunion of Western Germany and the Soviet zone. We have refused and will continue to do so. Thus the Kremlin is expected to take the usual next step, which is to resort to naked terrorization.

The agreements granting substantial independence to Western Germany and giving German divisions a place in the new European army, are expected to be negotiated and signed in a matter of weeks. Thereafter these agreements must be ratified by the German, French and other parliaments.

If the Kremlin follows the course now anticipated here, the implied threat of war will be used in order to prevent the completion of these agreements. Or if this proves impossible, then the attempt will be to frighten the French Chamber or German Bundestag out of ratifying the agreements.

As to what form the Kremlin's implied threat may take, thus far there is only speculation rather than solid evidence. Berlin is perhaps the most obvious arena for a drama of force and terror.

Preparations for a blockade of Berlin were put in hand by the Kremlin almost as soon as the old blockade was lifted. A railroad by-pass has now been constructed entirely around the city, so that western forces in Berlin can no longer halt through railway traffic between the different parts of the Soviet zone. Separate power stations have been built in East and West Berlin.

In recent weeks, moreover, the always-present tension in Berlin has been noticeably increased. Leaders of the puppet government in the Soviet zone have belated threats of force, if the West German rearmament project is not dropped. Not long ago, a mass attack on West Berlin was launched by the Free German Youth, which is the Soviet substitute for the Nazi Youth Movement.

And in the last few days, an Air France airliner was attacked in flight by a Soviet jet fighter—quite probably intentionally and as a preliminary demonstration, according to the view widely held here.

On the other hand, full-scale renewal of the blockade of Berlin will be an all but irrevocable act, openly and rather insistently inviting a war. It is still strongly believed that the Kremlin does not want war and does not want to risk war.

Hence American official opinion, while very far from ruling out Berlin as the main future storm centre, inclines to the view that in Berlin the Soviets will content themselves with multiplying such episodes as the attack on the Air France airliner.

Meanwhile, the real storm is rather expected to blow up in Vienna, if it occurs at all.

There also, there have been some warning incidents—interruptions of traffic between the Soviet and western zones of Austria and the like.

Only the future can tell whether the storm warning that has now been raised here in Washington (as well as in London, Paris and Bonn) truly presages a storm. Equally, only the future will show what form the storm is to take, if it comes at all. Various Soviet behavior in Europe is on the way, but the Kremlin can quite easily change its mind at the last moment.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THEY say," said the Elevator Man, "that English is very hard for a foreigner to learn because so many of the words have more than one meaning."

But we make it even worse by using the words in ways that not only give a second meaning but reverse what they seem to mean. Take a thing like that letter the new salesman brought in to his prospective boss as a reference. He never did find out why he didn't get the job. But the letter read, 'To whom it may concern: Bill Smith worked for us for one week and we were satisfied.' Even without words we can convey a reverse meaning. Hand-clapping is the usual way for an audience to show approval. But the other night in Paris when a modern composer was playing one of his unusual compositions a fella in the crowd started to clap loudly before the piece was finished.

There was no mistaking that the applause meant the opposite of what it should have. There wasn't any doubt about the reaction of a lady in the next seat, either. She was evidently a friend of the composer, and she let the applauding man have her handbag—right in the kisser. Going up!

"Even more misleading," said the Elevator Man, "was that window display in a bookstore in Czechoslovakia the other day. The owner of the store was arrested when she listed some book titles on a poster and set them up for all to see. Harmless enough, you'd think. The titles were: 'We Want to Live,' 'Far From Moscow,' 'In the Shadows of the Skyscrapers,' 'Under a Foreign Flag.' That was too much for the Communist government's henchmen. Now the book seller's in a prison cellar. Lower main!"

"While," said the Elevator Man, "words and actions can get you into trouble, even the lack of both can start the fireworks. You likely remember that story about the boss who came back from lunch in a good mood and called in the staff to get off a couple of jokes he'd heard. Everybody roared at them, except one girl. 'What's the matter?' gripped the boss. 'Haven't you any sense or humor?' 'Oh,' says the girl, 'I don't have to laugh. I'm leaving on Friday.'"

Civil Economy Not Hit Too Hard By Arms Race

By MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 12 (AP).—The United Nations' annual economic survey showed Sunday that the global rearmament race has failed to hit the civilian economy with the impact that many leading economists feared a year ago. On the contrary, the report showed that production of civilian goods has actually increased; wages generally kept pace with prices; and raw materials continued to be available for both military and civilian requirements.

These were key points in the world economic report prepared by U.N. economists for the Economic and Social Council which meets here May 20. The report also showed:

1. The world consumption of food per person is less than it was 15 years ago.
2. The gap between the production of the developed countries and the backward areas has widened still further.
3. The dollar shortage in many countries began to be serious again because of the heavy United States exports and the cut in non-military economic aid from the U.S.

The main stress in the report was laid on the continued plentiful supply of civilian goods.

SYNOPSIS: Pressure remains low off the coast but a ridge of high pressure is building through the interior of the province. Variable cloudiness and scattered showers are forecast for coastal areas, particularly in the northern part. The interior should enjoy considerable sunshine over the next two days, although some showers will develop in the late afternoon. Little change in the present temperature pattern is looked for.

Canada's Cherries In Cans Becoming Popular Delicacy

Canned cherries, manufactured chiefly in British Columbia and Ontario, are increasing in popularity, figures released by the federal department of agriculture indicated.

An all-time record of 301,900 cases of canned cherries was produced by the nation's canneries last year, government figures show. The output represents a substantial gain over the 1950 pack of 175,000 cases.

British Columbia processes an average of 2,500,000 pounds of cherries a year. However, this figure in the last two years had dropped considerably due to a lower crop yield.

The bulk of the cherry crop is grown on the Mainland. Vancouver Island produces about 60,000 pounds of cherries, amounting to approximately 300 cases, at 20 pounds to a case.

DREW CHARGES CARELESSNESS

Tory Leader Says Defense Costs Mounting Through Inefficiency

BEDFORD, Que., May 12 (CP).—George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, charged in week-end addresses here and at nearby Brome that much of the government's heavy defense expenditure has been wasted through carelessness and inefficiency.

He spoke here and at Brome over the week-end in support of Henri Demers, Progressive Conservative candidate in the May 26 by-election, called because of the death of Liberal Henri Gosselin.

He renewed recent attacks against the government over thefts from army camps. He said, too, it is significant that a series of fires in army establishments occurred in warehouses which contained, or were supposed to contain, supplies of an easily-salable nature.

He said Gordon Fraser (P.C.),

Peterborough, Ont.), had offered to produce men who could state under oath where supplies could be purchased in Ottawa at a fraction of their real value.

He also blamed the government for failing to halt the import of textiles, which, he said, was un-

Wall Collapses; At Least 25 Dead

CORDOBA, Argentina, May 12 (AP).—A wall of a boxing arena toppled on a crowd of spectators at the little town of Belleville Sunday, killing at least 25 and injuring 150.

Rain had collected on canvas covering the arena, and the weight of the water pulled over the wall.

Good News

For all customers using

Gas

A new-type gas, purer and better in many ways, will be delivered to all customers on Victoria Gas Company mains in Greater Victoria, starting Tuesday (May 13).

Briefly, this improvement is the result of a $150,000 program of research and installation that will provide you with a highly modern fuel at no increase in cost to you. At the same time it will modernize the operations of the plant and increase storage capacity substantially.

We think that you will like the change that is being made—that it will give greater satisfaction to all present gas customers and will encourage others to inquire fully about gas before making any other choice for cooking or water heating.

In order that you may take full advantage of the new-type fuel, a minor adjustment will be made to the burners on your gas appliances. Fifty trained men from Victoria Gas Company will call on all gas customers for this purpose in the period, commencing May 13. The adjustment will take only a few minutes in your home. It should cause you no inconvenience and there will be no charge.

A point to remember in case the busy crew do not reach you at the outset is that your appliance will work satisfactorily meanwhile on the new-type gas, and the adjustment is solely to assure your getting the maximum performance from the improved fuel.

You may notice, before the adjustment is made, that the gas flame is taller, in which case it can be turned down in the same way that you normally do to reduce the heat from your appliance.

Watchmaker Ruest Loses Appeal to Supreme Court

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today turned down the appeal of Genevieve Ruest, Quebec City watchmaker convicted of murder in a plot that sent 23 persons to death aboard a dynamited airliner Sept. 9, 1949.

Seven of nine judges agreed the appeal should be dismissed. The other two would have ordered a new trial.

The court was the last judicial resort for Ruest, one of three persons found guilty of murder in a time-bomb explosion in a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane over a desolate Quebec province area. He is to be hanged July 25 unless the federal government grants executive clemency.

Ruest, alleged to have made the time bomb in his watchmaking shop, appealed his conviction on the ground Mr. Justice Fernand Choquette had misdirected the jury.

The 54-year-old Ruest, a cripple, was convicted Dec. 13, 1950, the second of the three tried in one of the most fantastic crimes in Canada.

J. Albert Guay, the jeweler who organized the time-bombing to kill his wife so he could collect life insurance and marry a pretty waitress, was hanged Jan. 12.

Mrs. Arthur Pitre, 43-year-old sister of Ruest, awaits outcome of her appeal before the Quebec Court of Appeals. She is scheduled to be hanged June 27.

ISLAND DIGEST

DUNCAN, May 12—Problem of leasing Indian lands now occupied by Cowichan Agricultural Society will be discussed by society directors with W. S. Arnell, Indian affairs superintendent for B.C., at a meeting in the near future. Many developments await the decision to give the society undisputed possession of the land.

SOOKE HARBOR, May 12—Trophy winners at a Sooke Badminton Club banquet marking the close of the season were Elaine Dunlop and John Kennedy, children's group; Miss Louise Harper and Herbert Caffrey, juniors; and Mrs. Alvin Bryant and Larry Rumsby, seniors.

PORT ALBERNI, May 12—A new, three-mile highway approach to the city has been opened, and for the first time allows up-Island travelers to reach the "Port" without passing through Alberni. Graveling is almost complete and laying of an asphalt coating has begun. Official opening will be within two months.

LANGFORD, May 12—Residents of South Peatt Road have taken up a petition to have the road hard-surfaced and put into a condition favorable to pedestrians. They will make a public appeal since a request to the minister of public works was ignored.

COURTENAY, May 12—Tenders have been called by District 71 School Board for construction of a new Tsolum elementary school at Sandwick, and addition of an industrial arts building to Cumberland school. Tenders will close May 30.

PORT ALBERNI, May 12—Alberni Valley residents anticipate one of the largest May 24 parades in history of the district with the entry of several Victoria organizations. Among them will be a Chinese lion dance group, Eagles' band and Eagles' drill team.

Snag in Land Deal May Check School Building Program

DUNCAN, May 12—Completion of a deal to secure property at Herd and Bell-McKinnon Roads as a school site has been threatened with indefinite suspension, Trustee George Bonner told District 65 School Board.

The owner, Dr. Eric Johnson, has asked removal of a barn to another part of the property at the board's expense, and a change in the plan of the property to be purchased.

Trustee Bonner was authorized to discuss the proposed changes with the Department of Education.

Department approval will be asked of an offer by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lane, Victoria, to purchase the old Shawinigan Lake School for $1,200 on terms.

The board agreed to the use of Somenos School as a polling booth for the June 12 election, and to the donation of $100 toward Fairbridge School sports May 23.

'Dictator' New Title Slapped on Duplessis

Premier Charged With Enslaving Quebec Residents at Liberal Pre-Election Rally

QUEBEC CITY, May 12 (BUP)—Mayor J. A. Mongrain of Three Rivers, Que., said Saturday night that if the French pioneers who founded Canada knew that "Quebec would be enslaved by the dictatorship of Premier Maurice Duplessis" they never would have come here.

Mongrain, mayor of Duplessis' home town and of the seat the premier represents in the legislature, spoke at a Liberal Party rally filled with pre-election speeches although the provincial election date has not yet been announced.

Liberal chieftain Georges Emile Lapalme also made his first pre-election promises at the session. He guaranteed pensions for the crippled, the right of free union affiliation to all workers including school teachers, and an educational campaign against alcoholism.

"Conservatives, Nationalists, Creditists, all of you who voted for Premier Maurice Duplessis in 1948 will commit a political perjury against your conscience and your sons and daughters if you vote for the man who has enslaved you," he said.

Mongrain said Duplessis had imposed his "dictatorship" to a point "where almost everyone in the province lives in terror of losing his or her job for expressing freely his or her thoughts in public."

ARCHBISHOP'S SURPRISE STUNS NANAIMO'S NEW CANON HENDY

NANAIMO, MAY 12 (CP)—At the close of an unusually large confirmation service in St. Paul's Anglican Church Sunday night, Archbishop Harold Sexton called the rector, Rev. A. E. Hendy, before him and elevated him to the rank of canon.

He said, "Mr. Hendy will be preaching in the cathedral in New York soon and I want him to go there as a canon." The elevation came as a complete surprise to Mr. Hendy and the congregation. So stunned was he at the appointment that he found himself at a loss for words when trying to make the usual weekly announcements immediately afterwards.

TO those in need we offer a truly finer service, conducted with dignity and taste... complete in every exacting detail... all this with the thought of reasonable charges in mind.

Boost in Allowance Age Alberta Request

EDMONTON, May 12 (CP).—The Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations Saturday endorsed a resolution asking the Federal Health Department to boost to 18 years the family allowance age limit for full-time high school students.

The resolution asked that the Nova Scotia federation request the Federal Health Department to initiate steps toward an amendment to the act whereby family allowances will be paid to full-time high school students up to the age of 18 years.

It also resolved that copies of this resolution be forwarded to the national and various provincial federations.

The Alberta association moved the resolution because the Family Allowance Act provides only for children up to 15 years and many full-time students beyond that age remain wholly dependent upon their parents.

Survive Crash

REGINA, May 12 (CP).—Two Ottawa civilian fliers escaped injury here Saturday night when the plane they were flying crashed on a Regina airport runway.

Pilot Russell L. Bradley and Air Engineer Al Pye of Ottawa, were ferrying a Lockheed Ventura from Vulcan, Alta., to Ottawa for a private concern.

The twin-engine craft's hydraulic system broke down and when it hit the runway the undercarriage and landing gear collapsed. The plane was badly damaged but did not catch fire.

Honor Victorian

EDMONTON, May 17 (CP).—The University of Alberta Saturday announced names of additional British Columbia students who will receive degrees at the May 15 convocation.

R. A. Mitchell, Cranbrook, will be awarded a degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

E. E. Dellert, Kimberley and R. A. Briggeman, Trail, will receive B.Sc. degrees. Bachelor of Commerce degree will be awarded W. E. Beacom, Victoria.

All-Out Effort

SASKATOON, May 12 (CP).—Provincial Leader Joseph Thauberger indicated Saturday that the Social Credit party will make an all-out bid for power in the June 11 Saskatchewan general election.

Keynote of the Social Credit campaign in Saskatchewan will be "uniting the West under Social Credit."

"We feel our movement is sweeping British Columbia and that the party stands a good chance of election in Saskatchewan," said Mr. Thauberger.

"We may or may not hit our original objective of 42 candidates. We would doubtless have done so were it not for a 'snap' election being called."

Mr. Thauberger announced Social Credit plans after a two-day meeting in Saskatoon to hurry up nominating throughout the province.

The party has 10 men in the field to date and expects to have 15 by the end of next week.

Dies in Victoria

Joseph A. Merrick, 86, a prominent wholesale hardware merchant in Winnipeg for many years, died at his home here Sunday following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Merrick was born at Mill Lake, Que., educated in Montreal and moved to Winnipeg in 1887 with his parents.

He started a business at Virden, Man., and later became a partner in the firm of Merrick and Anderson at Winnipeg. He retired from business in 1927 and moved to Victoria.

NO POST OFFICE MAIL SERVICE FOR RADIO LICENSE SEEKERS

The post office cannot conduct a mail order service for radio licenses, Postmaster J. B. Sinclair said today.

He stated an increasing number of applications for licenses is being received by mail at the main Victoria post office.

"Persons wishing radio licenses should apply for them personally to any sub-post office, the main post office, leading music stores or the radio division, Department of Transport," the postmaster said.

13 Conventions Enliven U.S. Presidential Race

By The Associated Press
Both Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower expect to win new national convention delegate votes today as Wyoming and Rhode Island Republicans meet in state conventions to select 20.

Wyoming Democrats also are meeting to elect 10 delegates. Senator Estes Kefauver, of Tennessee, attended a pre-convention caucus Sunday night before leaving for Denver today, later Oregon.

Taft counted on picking up a majority of Wyoming's 12 Republican votes, but Eisenhower backers in Casper said "There'll be a hell of a fight" if Republican state leaders don't agree to a split-giving at least five to the general.

Eisenhower forces in Rhode Island are confident they will get most, if not all, of Rhode Island's eight delegate votes to the Chicago nominating convention.

As the busy political week got under way—13 conventions with 166 delegate votes at stake—Taft had 343 votes and Eisenhower 296, according to an Associated Press tally based on delegates pledged, conceded, instructed, favorable, or willing to state a first ballot choice.

Both Republican contenders picked up new votes Saturday. Taft added 11 and Eisenhower four as 86 delegates were selected in party meetings in Nevada, Utah, Michigan, Missouri and Virginia. Republicans chose 24 Democrats 62, most of whom were uncommitted and uninstructed.

Tuesday's West Virginia primaries will elect 20 Democratic and 36 Republican delegates and North Dakota says he is for Fefauver.

Democrats open a two-day convention to complete that state's eight-vote delegation.

Taft expects a runaway from former Governor Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota in the popularity contest in West Virginia and counts on getting most of the state's delegates. But Eisenhower backers have urged voters to write "Ike" across the Taft-Stassen names although writes are not permitted and such votes cannot be counted legally.

All the candidates in the Democratic race have refused to state a preference except one man who says he is for Fefauver.

United Too Good For U.S. Tourists

Milligan Nets Pair In 3-1 Win

By DENNY BOYD

Soccer has had more than its rightful share of hard luck in Victoria this year but everything went right Sunday as Victoria United defeated San Francisco All-Stars, 3-1, at Macdonald Park.

Under perfect weather conditions, an overflow crowd of over 2,500 contributed enough in donations to cover the $500 guarantee promised the touring team.

Admittedly tired after losing 5-1 to Vancouver Saturday afternoon, the touring team still showed flashes of brilliant form at times before tiring in the second half.

San Francisco's forward line showed great adroitness at ball handling and worked their wings well.

However, a strong United defense, with Joe Robbins playing in his usual flawless fashion, broke most of the plays up outside of accurate shooting range.

Reserve goalie Bill Cox started in the San Francisco nets and stopped half a dozen ticketed drives before being replaced by Mario Mangiola late in the first half. Cox was particularly effective on two breaks by Wally Milligan which were turned aside.

Visitors Lead

Midway through the first half, peppery little Rico Bolanos, who saw action at both inside posts, dribbled past the United defense and gave Homo Zylker a perfect set-up.

With goalie Bill McAllister in his mercy, Zylker caught the corner with a shot that McAllister could only partly deflect.

There was no further scoring in the first half as defensive play predominated.

In the second half, Jack Strachan and Noel Moran took over from Bernie Clarkson and Cedric Robb on the wings and Frank Lohner came on for halfback Sid Robbins.

After eight minutes Stan Bolalaid a pass up the middle to Milligan who, anticipating Mangiola's move perfectly, pivoted and scored in the upper left hand corner, to tie the score.

Strachan Scores

Strachan shot a sizzler from close in that Mangiola blocked with a full-length dive. But Strachan retrieved the ball and scored 10 seconds later when he teed the ball up in front of the net on Moran's cross and drove a short shot just under the bar.

Ian Campbell nearly tied it up again when he drove a vicious one-bounce shot at the United net. However, the alert McAllister made a dazzling save.

Milligan terminated the scoring on a play that caused considerable controversy among the crowd and the San Francisco players.

Both he and Mangiola raced after a loose ball in front of the goal when Milligan scored suddenly, the goalie was knocked spinning.

MAJOR BASEBALL DEAL REPORTED IN MAKING

DETROIT, May 12 (AP)—The Detroit Free Press says today St. Louis Browns have offered ace pitcher Ned Garver to Detroit Tigers in return for third-baseman George Kell and other players.

The Free Press says the Browns wanted "to involve a half-dozen other players in what would have been one of the biggest deals in baseball history."

Vice-President Bill Dewitt of the Browns came to Detroit for two days to confer with general manager Charlie Gehringer of the last-place Tigers, the paper reports.

"Several other key players on both teams were involved," says the Free Press.

Manager Red Rolfe confirmed there had been trade talks.

"Yes, Dewitt was here to see us but as far as making that trade it would be silly," Rolfe said. "We need infielders, not pitchers."

Eade Scores Soccer Moguls

By BILL WALKER
Victoria United's 3-1 victory over San Francisco All-Stars, and the grateful response of soccer's fandom to the tune of $487.00 (the guarantee was $500) in the international exhibition was "marred" late Sunday in an after-the-game meeting between United officials and members of the B.C. Football Association.

In thanking the fans for their generous contribution to the cause, United president George Eade flayed the B.C.F.A. for what he termed "failure to foster the United and the team spirit the club has displayed during the season."

Eade revealed that United's request to train as a team for the Tottenham Hotspur exhibition match June 2 had been turned down.

"This confirms a rumor prevalent last week that United had requested the B.C.F.A. to play Tottenham as a team. However, as was the case last year against Fulham of the English Soccer League, an all-star city team was named with Turner as manager and Kulal as coach."

United dominated the selections to the 11-man squad which was chosen by the selection committee.

"The reason we asked for no interruption in our training program," Eade said, "was the fact that we have league playoff and Province Cup matches coming up in the future and we wish to make the best showing possible."

Says Withdrawal Threat Of Cagers 'Ridiculous'

MONTREAL, May 12 (CP)—Al Irwin, National secretary of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association described today as "ridiculous" a statement by two university coaches that they objected to facing a "composite C.A.B.A. team in the Olympic trials."

Irwin was replying to a statement from London, Ont., Sunday night in which Dr. Maury Van Flit, of University of Alberta, and Johnny Metras, of University of Western Ontario, threatened to withdraw from the 1952 Canadian Olympic basketball trials.

The teams meet tonight in the first of their best-of-five Canadian college basketball championship, with the winner scheduled to play Tillsonburg Livingston's C.A.B.A. champions, in the Olympic trials.

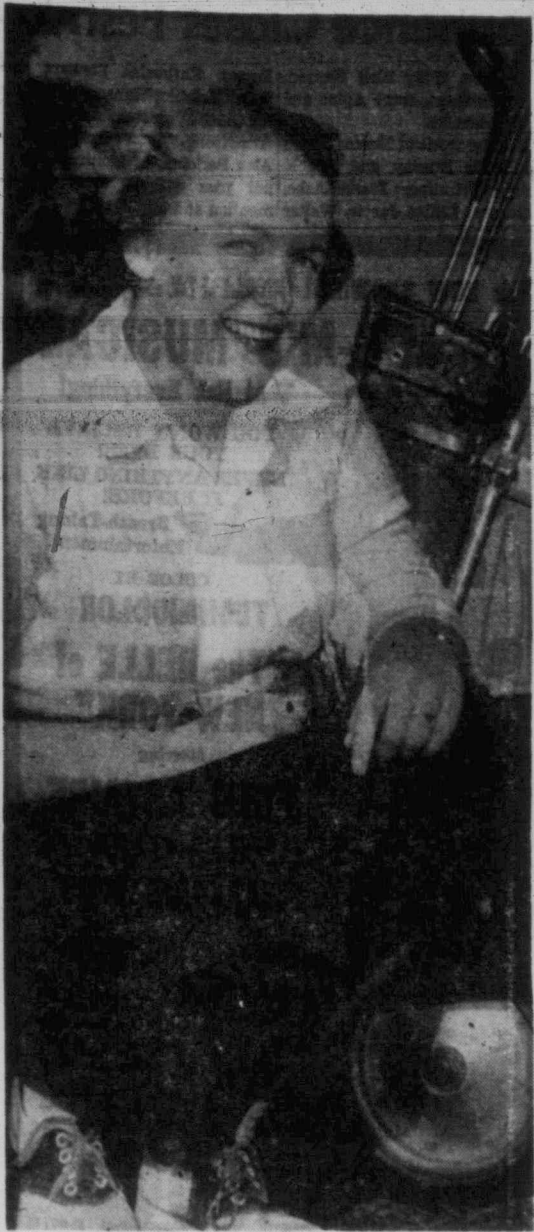

Irwin said Van Flit and Metras were objecting to a C.A.B.A. ruling which allows Tillsonburg to replace Tommy Gibbons with Carl Ridd, a member of Winnipeg Varsity Grade, Gibbons was ruled ineligible for the Olympic series because of his American citizenship.

"Ridd is the only player involved in the hassle," Irwin said. "Therefore, I fail to see where

SHIRLEY FRY

Shirley Fry Captures Second Gorge Vale Title

A pert young miss who has been playing golf for only four years, Sunday won her second women's club championship.

The modest, smiling links-woman of whom Gorge Vale professional Joe Pryke says, "She has an excellent chance of representing British Columbia in the forthcoming Dominion junior championships at Edmonton" is 18-year-old Shirley Fry.

Miss Fry defeated Dorothy Hebertson in the Gorge Vale women's final, 4 and 3, for her second title in three years.

Last year Miss Hebertson captured the honors, defeating Miss Fry in the final. Miss Fry won her first title in 1950.

Miss Fry took a two-hole lead on the outgoing nine, and held it through the remaining portion of the match, though she said: "It was close until the final few holes."

"I was so nervous," the chunky titlist said, "but then so was Dorothy."

DRYSDALE WINS IN COUNT BACK Rifle Shooting Oddity Takes Place at Heals

Bandsman Frank Drysdale and D. D. Thorburn turned in identical 96's at Heals Range Saturday in the weekly rifle shoot, the honors going to Drysdale in a count back to the 300-yard contest.

Both had 48's at each distance, the shot for shot count back showing identical shot values at 500 with inners for their second and ninth shots.

Drysdale won with bullseyes back to his sixth shot at 300 yards. Thorburn had bulls back to his eighth shot, having an inner on the seventh.

Bosox Slip to Third Place; Pitchers Dominate Action

What happened to the lively ball? Like the dodo bird, it appears to have become extinct.

Two years ago the pitchers were waiting about two much jack-rabbit in the ball. Now the hitters are doing the moaning and groaning.

The major league season is less than a month old and already 28 shutouts have been pitched. American League hurlers, who have turned in 17 white-washing jobs, have spun seven 1-0 games to equal their full-season total of 1951.

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees pitched brilliant 1-0 two-hit victories Sunday. That boosted to 35 the total of games this year in which a team was held to four hits or less.

Only four home runs were hit Sunday. That raised the two leagues' total to 217, to fewer than the total at a corresponding date last year.

Lemon's two-hit victory was followed by Mike Garcia's eighth, 3-1 triumph that enabled the Indians to sweep a doubleheader from the Browns and increase their American League lead to two games over the runner-up Washington Senators.

Detroit Tigers snapped their seven-game losing streak, nipping Chicago, 2-1, after the White Sox had won the first game of the doubleheader, 6-5.

DODGERS GAIN
Brooklyn Dodgers whittled New York's National League

lead to one game, edging Philadelphia 4-3 in 10 innings.

Joe Adcock walloped two homers and a single to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. Chicago Cubs split a twin bill with Pittsburgh, losing 11-2 after winning the opener 8-2.

GARVER VICTIM
Lemon was extended to the limit as Ned Garver, Brownie ace, yielded only four hits himself. Three of them came in the last half of the nine to furnish the only run. Dale Mitchell's two-out single with the bases loaded broke up the mound duel.

Reynolds, who hurled a no-hitter against the Red Sox last September, nearly duplicated the stunt. The only hits the Red Sox got were first-inning singles by Dom DiMaggio and Vern Stephens as the Yankee righthander registered his 1-0 triumph at the expense of Mel Parnell.

The defeat dropped the Red Sox into third place, 10 percent age points behind Washington. The Senators defeated Philadelphia Athletics, 5-2, in 11 innings of the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. Rain washed out the second tilt after two scoreless innings.

MINOR BALL OPENS

Woodruff in No-Hitter

Art Woodruff of Oak Bay's 16-and-under baseball team turned in a dazzling performance Sunday as the Victoria Minor Baseball League got under way with six games.

Woodruff tossed a no-hitter and struck out 20 of 21 batters in the seven-inning game to give his club a 7-0 victory.

In the other 16-and-under contest City Centre beat Eagles 13-6, behind the one-hit pitching of Dave.

In 14-and-under games Oak Bay beat Eagles 10-2; James Bay beat Fairfield 18-6, Esquimalt edged City Centre No. 2, 7-4, and City Centre No. 1 beat Saanich, 11-3.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Kent

"I see Bill Veck is in one of his moods today!"

Snead Cops Greenbriar; Oliver Second

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., May 12 (AP)—There's no place like home, of course, and for Sam Snead there's no place like his home course.

Same proved it again Sunday with a four-under-par 66 in a drenching rain to win the $1,800 first prize in the Greenbriar Open, played over the layout where he also picks up loose change as golf professional.

It was the slammer's fourth straight sub-par round and gave him a 72-hole total of 264. His 16 strokes under par were six better than the second-place effort turned in by Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill., who pocketed $1,000.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., copped third with a 271 and $700 in prize money.

Although the 6,368-yard Old White course was drenched in a downpour, the veteran Snead shot like the sun was out as he birdied five of the last 18 holes. His only real spoiler was the fifth hole, where he took three putts.

ART GREEN NETS FIVE GOALS

Foul Bay Whips Jokers

With carrot-topped goalie Alan Thompson turning aside 19 out of 22 shots, Foul Bay clobbered Jimmy Little's Jokers, 16-3 Sunday in a senior B lacrosse game at Stevenson Memorial Box.

After Ald, Frank Mulliner faced off the first ball to open the home season, Foul Bay dominated the game, although both clubs appeared to experience difficulty acclimatizing themselves to the outdoor surface after playing in Memorial Arena for two years.

Passing at times was erratic but Foul Bay's shooting proved deadly.

Fast-breaking Art Green was top sniper as he bulged the Joker goal five times. Teammate John Newton rapped in four goals and added one assist.

Johnny Bamford and Buzz

Hudson scored for Foul Bay in the first seven minutes but Vic Sage and Vic Gallop counted for Jokers to leave the squads tied 2-2 at the end of the first quarter.

For the next three periods, Foul Bay ran wild, sifting through the Joker defense to let loose a hail of shots at the Joker net.

A crowd of 500 filled the bleachers and were treated to a first-class scuffle when Jack Thompson and Cliff Scroggie dropped their sticks and wailed away until parted by the referee.

Foul Bay travels to Nanaimo Tuesday night to meet Nanaimo Jets who edged Jokers 9-8 in the first game of the season.

Psychological Offering Theatre Guild's Finale

"KIND LADY"

The Doctor...

In presenting its final play of the season, the Victoria Theatre Guild has turned from comedy to psychological melodrama.

The Hugh Walpole adaptation opened Saturday night at the Langham Court Theatre for the usual week's run, and after tantalizing the audience with chills and fevers for a couple of hours, sent them home satisfied that the heroine, Mary Herries, had emerged from her predicament victoriously.

Well-known actress Gwen Downes, was definitely the star of the show, making believable a situation in which she—the kind lady—was ruthlessly victimized by the handsome man, she had befriended.

Mrs. Downes showed herself a mistress of all those essential details, those small realities which give acting breadth and depth and make it live beyond the final curtain.

The handsome, soulless villain of the piece, as portrayed by Piers Bailey, lacked a sufficiently strong infusion of evil in the characterization, a fact which accounted for some loss of dramatic impact.

NEEDS HARDNESS

While quite competent in itself, the acting would be improved with a more definite suggestion of hardness. Mr. Bailey nevertheless presents a distinctive and striking appearance in his first major Guild role.

Several of the supporting characters are brilliantly taken and round out what, on the whole, is an effective cast, smoothly and expertly directed by H. Vaughan Barker, who is seen momentarily in a bit part.

Especially memorable are Maureen Fitzgerald, Cynthia Ross in a difficult "mad" role, Doreen Rees and Basil Issigonis.

Sets under the supervision of Harold Ker, lighting and music all add up to an entertaining evening and make the show well worth a visit.

Winnipeg Ballet's Fine Performance Closes Festival

TORONTO, May 12 (CP).—A second showing of the Winnipeg Ballet's "Shooting of Dan McGrew" closed the fourth annual Canadian ballet festival Saturday night with rounds of spontaneous applause.

Speaking of the "long established and professional" Winnipeg Ballet, Herbert Whitaker, of the Globe and Mail said: "The audience needs the kind of enjoyment that the Winnipeg group can give if it is to support the festival and surely the other dancers need to see the best in the country."

Reviewing the complete festival, Mr. Whitaker had these comments: Choreography: "There is a lack of genuine creative urge in the work of the Canadian choreographers, which may be laid down in part to their lack of opportunities of growing in their art and also to the conditions under which they must labor."

Settings: "The standard was quite high... but of settings, I think Jean Fournier de Belval was easily identifiable as having made the most helpful and artistic contribution with his work for Elizabeth Leese's "Lady From the Sea."

But the work of Marina Katri-ono, Viola Busday and Arnold Spohr, of Winnipeg; Joanne Ashe, of Ottawa; Lillian Jarvis, Walter Foster, Katherine Stewart and little Christl Holm, of Toronto; Calvin Von Reinhold and Kay Armstrong, of Vancouver, and Alex Perlema, of Montreal, must not pass without some special mention and applause.

The Ballet Production Club of Vancouver produced an unscheduled performance of "Scherzo." Mr. Whitaker said: "As an exercise in adagio it was light in feeling and buoyant but put considerable strain on the four dancers to maintain its mood."

RECENT VISIT to Victoria of Moira Shearer, star of "Red Shoes," has added interest in the revival of the British film at the Odeon Theatre tonight and Tuesday. Miss Shearer, prima ballerina of the Sadler's Wells Ballet Company, was here on her way to California with her husband, author Ludovic Kennedy. They were guests of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Clarence Wallace.

Stelly's Crossroad

BEHIND THE SIGNS
with Jim Nesbitt

Stelly's Crossroad in Spanish was named for George Stelly, an adventurous Swiss who roamed over much of the American continent in search of gold before he settled down in Victoria to become a business man and farmer.

Born in 1828, Stelly left Europe at the age of 20 and sailed to New Orleans. He pushed on to Illinois, then to Iowa. He joined in the California gold rush in the 50's, then pushed on again to the Cariboo gold fields.

Coming to Victoria in the early 60's, Stelly took up business as a contractor and transfer agent.

He owned many acres in Spanish, where he spent much time, interesting himself particularly in horses.

Gas Men Check All Customers For Efficiency

Starting Tuesday a crew of 50 trained men will call on all B.C. Electric gas customers to make sure stoves will give maximum performance with a new-type fuel to be used.

Production changes made at a cost of $150,000 will be completed that day. Both quality and storage capacity will be improved, but cost to the customer will be unchanged.

The new product, a blending of blue gas and petroleum gas, will have a heat output of 525 B.T.U.'s per cubic foot. Fuel from the coal gas plant, that will be abandoned, had an output of only 450 B.T.U.'s.

Changes to gas mains and feeders leading to the 9,000 customers in the area are expected to improve pressure and increase storage capacity by 25 per cent.

LIFT PENALTY OF DEATH ON 'TIGER WOMAN'

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 12 (AP).—Governor Howard Pyle Saturday commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence of Winnie Ruth Judd, 48, the "Tiger Woman" of the early 1930's.

The governor's action followed a recommendation made to him by the Arizona Board of Pardons and Paroles. Mrs. Judd will remain in the Arizona State Hospital for the Insane until such time as she is declared sane. If that should ever occur, she would then be transferred to a state prison.

The red-haired killer was committed to the hospital 72 hours before she was to hang for the 1931 shooting of two women friends. A jury had found her guilty of murder. Another jury found her insane just before she was to have been hanged in 1932.

During the 20 years she has been in the state hospital, Mrs. Judd has escaped five times.

contained names and dates between 1900 and 1909.

In other work, the expedition left at the North Pole six water-tight glass jars, wrapped in eye-catching luminous red silk. The jars contained notes about the expedition and any finders were asked to record the date and position found and report to the air force research centre. Such information may supply information on the speed and direction of little-known Arctic Ocean currents.

Surgery May Assist Insane

Technique Will Still 'Spirit Voices' Of Mentally Ill Says Brain Specialist

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., May 12 (AP).—A kind of "human sonar"—comparable to the sound-echoing technique used by the navy to detect submarines—may be working in the brains of many insane people.

Dr. Walter Freeman, Washington, D.C., brain specialist, said today a new idea in brain surgery offers promise of stilling the "spirit voices" heard by such people—and perhaps improving their general mental condition.

He said the surgical technique—involving the removal of a finger-tip-sized organ from deep within the brain on both sides of the head—is based on a concept that "voices" heard by the insane are actually echoes of words whispered by the patient himself, often with closed lips.

The report was in an address prepared for the Society of Biological Psychiatry meeting in conjunction with the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Freeman said the concept was based to some degree on the following observation on bats and porpoises: Those creatures—which apparently navigate around obstacles with the help of sound echoes of their own making—have an abnormally large development of an organ within the brain called the "amygdaloid nucleus."

Humans, as well as all animals, have similar organs inside the part of the brain that lies behind each temple. Its natural function is believed to be associated with the pitch of the human voice and the call or cry of lower animals.

Dr. Freeman offered the theory that in insane people who hear "voices" there is some defect in these inner brain organs. Ideas of the patient himself are converted—with the help of the de-

Pride Stiffens Cadets' Backs

The pride of being a soldier was written on young faces Thursday night as I watched the smartly turned-out Cadet Corps of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) on inspection parade at the armory. The show the lads put on was a credit to the Scottish Regiment and particularly to Capt. Dudley Stephens, their O.C.

There were no more than 50 bodies on the inspection parade. Remarked Major Peter Ramsay, second-in-command of the reserve battalion, "we might not have quantity but we've certainly got quality!"

Sgt. Maj. Ian Sutherland—no adult, in my opinion, in the same role on the parade square is his better in these parts—has this proud boast: "There's no juvenile delinquent in this crew." That exemplifies the value of army training and regimental traditions installed into the younger generation.

Under the guidance of Miss Nancy Ferguson, expert teacher, the cadets are becoming polished Highland dancers, too.

UNIT MAY DISSOLVE

Stories were flying about this week that the elimination of the city grant to the Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps may have more far-reaching effects than a reduction in strength. Some even think that unless the public opens its purse strings to make up that deficit and the overall 4,500 needed annually to operate the unit, it will fold.

It is not generally known, but the Royal Canadian Navy does not finance the corps. It operates on public donations.

Inter-divisional softball season opened this week at H.M.C.S. Naden. Torpedo and electrical team downed ordnance school 13 to 5.

Times Carriers Win Trip to Vancouver

Twenty-four Victoria Times carrier boys were treated to an all-expenses trip from Victoria to Vancouver to Nanaimo and back to Victoria over the week-end. They earned the trip by topping the carriers in a six-week circulation contest. The boys agreed the best part of the whole trip was a big Smorgasbord supper Saturday night in Vancouver. Making the trip were Ilmars Osolitt, J. Anderson, Gary Udy, Bill Feasey, Lawrence Christensen, George McCreadie, Roy Merriman, Barry Saunders, Roland Schiller, Clive Wright, George Philon, Bill Lomax, Neil Harrison, Mike Kersey, Don Johnson, Eric Cardy, L. Mackey, T. Farmer, Jimmy Loiselle, Chris Little, John Hereyet, Geoff Thorpe, Art Dodsworth and Pat Rogers. The boys were accompanied by R. Cromie, Times circulation office manager, and R. Wright, Times district manager.

Skipper Blamed In Sea Tragedy

Commander of U.S. Destroyer, Lost With 176, Charged With Unwise Move

BAYONNE, N.J., May 12 (AP)—A picture of a young destroyer skipper — anxious to win approval by smart, prompt manoeuvres, but instead making a terrible blunder that cost the lives of himself and 175 of his crew — has emerged from the Navy Court of Inquiry into the Hobson-Wasp collision.

The destroyer — minesweeper Hobson and the aircraft carrier Wasp collided in mid-Atlantic February 26 while on night manoeuvres. The Hobson was cut in two and sank in four minutes with 176 men, including the skipper, Lt. Cmdr. William J. Tierney.

The senior surviving officer of the Hobson, 27-year-old Lieut. William A. Hoefler, laid the blame for the collision on Tierney Saturday when the court of inquiry met in its second session at the naval shipyard annex here.

Without making accusations in so many words, Hoefler made it clear that he thought his 32-year-old skipper had made a mistake.

His account of the manoeuvres that led to the collision: "The ships were on parallel courses, about 3,000 yards apart, with the Wasp slightly ahead and to the left when the Wasp signaled its intention to turn into the wind so its planes could land. The Wasp's turn to the right brought it facing back toward the Hobson on a course that would cut diagonally across the Hobson's original course."

Tierney's problem then was to get in the same position at the side of the carrier. He first gave the order to turn right. Then he twice in succession ordered "left standard rudder."

Asked why he hadn't objected

more strenuously to the order for left rudder, Hoefler said:

"Well, sir, on paper it worked out all right. It would have put us on station. I made a suggestion and while I thought it was good, when I saw he wasn't agreeable I didn't see any sense in arguing about it."

NEW ICE RINK GETS $10,000 FROM SKATERS

Sum of $10,000 toward their proposed $125,000 ice rink has been pledged by members of Victoria Figure Skating Club. Ross Hocking, president, said Saturday.

The 750 members are being asked to buy $100 memberships. Ninety-seven pledges have been received to date, but not half the membership has been canvassed yet, Mr. Hocking said.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

The newest designs in sunglasses are fitted out with little real-view mirrors.

These will quickly become standard equipment with politicians already noted for their hindsight.

From West Vancouver, "D.B." comments on a statement here that Rex Battle's surname is a rare one.

Says he: "I don't know about other towns, but in Vancouver's phone book you'll find Dr. Charles Edward Battle, Daniel J. Battle, Battle & Houghland Ltd., Mrs. Mary Battle, W. F. Tucker Battle."

"The Battles, who were parents of Dr. C. E. and I think, Tucker and of Josephine Battle (who taught German at U.B.C. for some years) lived for many years on Comox Street, next door to Jim McCreedy of Crane & Co."

"On the other side of Jim's house was a family named Breeze or Breesé. Jim claimed that his flag had braved a thousand years the Battle and the Breeze."

Vancouver seems more blessed with Battles than Victoria is. Only one in the phone book here is Jesse F. of Ocean Blvd.

A garageman out Metchosin way says the condition of the roads out there is making this the best springtime he's had in years.

You'll be glad to know that Dick Taylor of Seattle successfully defended his clam-eating championship—presumably of the world, as all championships held in the United States are World Championships.

Anyway, a while back Dick downed 337 clams in 10 minutes. A shell fish gesture if I ever heard of one.

John Scott, the C.B.C. announcer, enjoyed one of those handy little slips of the tongue, the other night when announcing a medley of sea chanteys.

The way it came out, John said "down to the she in sips."

Which may not be so far wrong at that.

The politicians in B.C. still have nearly two weeks in which to get their hats into the ring.

We can only hope that once they get them there, they will refrain from talking through them.

Record List For City's Polling Day

Oak Bay Also Up; Esquimalt Down

Total of 35,632 persons will be eligible to vote in Victoria in the June 12 election, W. H. Ryan, registrar of voters, said today.

This is an all-time high for Victoria. In 1949, the last general election date, the voters' list contained 31,962 names.

In Oak Bay, 10,303 names are on the list compared with 8,909 in 1949.

Esquimalt voters' list shows 11,846 names, compared with 12,017 for the by-election last year, and 10,638 in the 1949 election.

Saanich figures are not yet completed.

Nearly all ridings in the province are expected to show a gain, and the total voting strength may reach 750,000 as against 694,000 in 1949. Population of the province is about 1,100,000.

Other inland ridings' voting strength, reported so far, (with 1949 figures in brackets) are: Cowichan-Newcastle, 14,820 (12,100); Alberni, 12,435 (10,590); and Comox, 21,369 (16,820).

Housewife Winner of Car at Products Fair

Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Hills of 423 Parry accept keys for new Meteor sedan from Lieut.-Col. Walter Mosedale, sales manager for Gladwell Motors, after Mrs. Hills drew winning number Saturday night at fair. Perched on top of car is their daughter, one-and-a-half-year-old Colleen. Mrs. Hills said she intends to drive the new car and her husband will drive family car which they recently bought. Record number of Victorians attended fair last week with final figures set at 37,300—2,000 higher than 1951. (Times photo.)

Civil Service Boost Advised

Commission Recommends Six Per Cent, Plus Cost-of-Living Bonus, Increase

Six per cent wage increases and incorporation of the cost-of-living bonus into the wage structure have been recommended to the government for British Columbia's 10,000 civil servants by the civil service commission.

The recommendations are being studied by a provincial cabinet committee which will meet with the B.C. Government Employees' Association representatives Tuesday morning.

The cabinet had referred the wage part of the employees' requests to the civil service commission for study and recommendation.

Institution of a five-day week for all civil servants, one of the main requests of workers, is not favored by the government. It is understood the government favors granting a five-day week on a four-month test basis only to workers in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster, about one-third of the whole civil service.

The association executive has sent telegrams to all ministers urging a fast and favorable decision on their requests which they have been awaiting "four and one-half months."

The association wants a five-day week for all workers, including those with the Liquor Control Board.

Appointment of a three-way committee to study implementation of a five-day week for government employees on a three-shift basis in hospitals and institutions also is asked by the association.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

City fire department attended four fires over the week-end. On Saturday they extinguished a chimney fire at 2634 Wark, a room fire in the New Jubilee Hotel at 575 Johnson, and two chimney fires Sunday.

Medium damage occurred Saturday at Beffington and Gladstone in a collision between cars driven by William B. Stevenson, 2331 Victor, and Asmund Hagen, 1520 Gladstone.

Saanich Berry Growers Hurt By May Frost

Strawberries were hard hit by last week's frost, bringing losses as high as 30 per cent to some early bloom, it was learned today from Saanich fruit growers.

The losses chiefly followed last Monday's frost which nipped many plants in full bloom, they said. In some areas, losses were lighter, between 10 and 15 per cent.

Growers said in some localities crops escaped damage.

While the frost loss may affect the yield, growers felt that good growing weather may offset the losses.

"Apart from the frost, the weather so far has been ideal for growing," said one farmer.

"If this continues some berry farms will get bumper crops."

Fire Hall Fate On Agenda for City Aldermen

Closure of No. 2 fire hall will be on the agenda of a special City Council meeting Tuesday morning at 10.30, called for passage of the 1952 tax and expenditure by-laws.

A letter from Harman, Sloan & McKenzie, solicitors for Victoria Local of the International Association of Firefighters will be read.

It advises council that the law firm will seek an application for a Supreme Court order to quash council's resolution ordering closure of the Yates Street fire hall.

The union, however, will not file proceedings until sometime Tuesday, in the event that council requests a delay and offers hope of amicable settlement.

The law firm is applying for the order to quash under the Municipal Act, on grounds of illegality. They claim calling for closure by resolution rather than by-law is illegal.

They contend also the closure is a "lockout," illegal under the I.C. and A. Act.

An early-day Victoria building at 518 Fort Street which originally housed a steam plant for supplying electricity, has been taken over by a local furniture firm as a warehouse.

Victoria Day, May 24, will be observed as a holiday at the Legislative Buildings.

The buildings will be closed all day, but the provincial museum will remain open.

Regular meeting of the Victoria Short Wave Club will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 2500 Foul Bay Road. Plans for a hunt for a hidden transmitter will be completed.

E. R. Etheridge, F.R.H.S., will address members of the Victoria Gladiolus Society at the City Hall Council Chambers at 8 p.m. Thursday, it was announced by Mrs. B. A. Setchell, secretary-treasurer. He will speak on "artistic arrangements."

Long-Time Saanich Resident, R. Pope, Died Here Sunday

Raymond Daniel Pope, well known in lumbering circles and a former superintendent of the Hillcrest Lumber Co. at Hillcrest and Mesachie Lake, died here Sunday. He was 67 years old.

THE LATE RAYMOND POPE

Born in Ashland, Wisconsin, Mr. Pope was a resident of Canada since 1898. He resided on Mount Newton Crossroad East, Saanichton, since his retirement from the lumber business. He was a member of the Union Lodge No. 9, A.F. & A.M., of New Westminster.

He is survived by his wife; a son, John R. Pope of Sidney; daughter, Mrs. J. M. (Loretta) Sutherland, 69 Burnside Road West; one grandson, five granddaughters, and his brother, William J. Pope of San Francisco.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Anglican Church, Saanichton, on Wednesday at 3.15 p.m. Rev. Dr. E. H. Lee will officiate. Interment will take place in St. Stephen's Church Cemetery.

Rainbow Sea Cadets Parade Like Veterans for Review

Smartness and efficiency of Royal Canadian Navy Rainbow Sea Cadet Corps drew the praise of the inspecting officer and 300 parents and friends who viewed the unit on its annual inspection parade Sunday afternoon.

The parade and demonstration program took place at the corps headquarters, foot of Robert Street. Capt. L. L. Atwood, chief of staff to Rear Adm. W. B. Creery, was inspecting officer. There were 127 senior cadets participating.

Capt. Atwood was impressed with the showing of the guard of honor of 25 cadets. "As good as our precision-trained guards of the senior navy," he commented. He was equally pleased with the efficiency of all classes. Highlight of the inspection was a seamanship display in which the budding sailors demonstrated methods of transferring persons over 300 feet of water by breeches buoy.

It was the best inspection held in many years and I feel sure the public will rally to the aid of the corps during the present financial crisis," Forrest L. Shaw, chairman of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, told the onlookers and cadets.

DEPENDS ON PUBLIC

The corps has been cut out of city grants and must now rely on citizens more than ever to provide the $4,500 needed annually to operate the unit. The corps operates on public donations.

Mrs. L. Pettie, chairman of the women's auxiliary of the corps, presented a prize to L. S. Ray Bryant for efficiency. Mrs. W. Alsford presented an award to L. S. Colin Campbell for "best deportment."

Capt. Arthur Dando, O.C. of the unit, presented an award to A.B. Levern Stillborn for rifle marksmanship.

POLITICAL NOTES

Johnson Rebukes Author Of Resignation Report

Premier Byrton Johnson isn't intending to resign after the June 12 election.

He has made this clear in reply to a statement by Alan McDonell, Progressive Conservative candidate in Vancouver Centre, who said last week the premier will get out after the vote is known regardless of the results.

That sort of statement is not what I would have expected from a former member of the Coalition," said Premier Johnson. "I must remind Mr. McDonell that a Liberal convention of more than 700 delegates was held and those delegates unanimously endorsed my leadership."

The premier said the public can accept his remarks as a complete denial of Mr. McDonnell's allegations.

It was one of the few times the premier has made personal reference to any opposition candidate in his campaign. He conscientiously avoids such reference.

Premier E. C. Manning of Alberta is expected to be in B.C. in June to take part in the election campaign. Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, definitely will campaign in this province.

Setting of the Saskatchewan election for June 11, one day before B.C.'s voting day, caused S.C. leaders some difficulty in arranging schedules for Alberta speakers. Instead of concentrating in this province, speakers now will have to be shared.

Former Progressive Conservatives W. A. C. Bennett and Mrs. Tilly Rolston, now Social Crediters, have started speaking tours. Mrs. Rolston will cover the Fraser Valley and Mr. Bennett the Okanagan and coastal areas.

Premier Johnson never has Mrs. Johnson on the platform with him. She prefers to sit in the audience.

Tory leader Herbert Anscomb will be in Port Alberni May 22 in support of candidate A. C. Pitt Clayton.

A thunder and lightning storm, which doused the lights in Penicton, didn't stop Mr. Anscomb from speaking. He hardly paused. Although the hall was in complete darkness, he kept on talking.

Employees' Move to End Night Work Disturbs City's Bakery Operators

A five-day week and elimination of night work by law, now being sought by bakery workers of western Canada, will not have the support of Victoria bakery operators.

"It's not realistic," one operator said of the resolution passed at the annual convention of 12th District Council, Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union, which concluded Saturday in Moose Jaw.

"We have gone to enormous expense to deliver fresh bread—fresh as possible—to dealers," he said. "That is because the consumer demands fresh bread, and we feel we have to provide it."

The union also wants to eliminate work on statutory holidays, and claims that modern processes eliminate the need for bakers to take time off the day before the statutory holiday, and work on the holiday itself.

"We don't work at night now," one operator said, "but we still want to work without the use of artificial preservatives, whatever hours that may involve."

Another baker said a five-day week and normal holiday observance would be "fine, if everybody observed it."

"It would be ideal if everyone did it," he said, "but the man working for himself probably would not. People like their bakery products fresh from the oven, and the way to provide them is to go to work at 4 a.m."

At its convention the union resolved to ask the federal government to restrict the dumping of foreign-made biscuits and cookies in the Canadian market.

Speakers also reported the five-day, 40-hour week is in effect only in Vancouver, and that others work six days and even longer.

The convention concluded with the re-election of Thomas Gooderham, Victoria, as president of the district council.

Philip Watts, baritone, Vancouver, will also take part in the performance.

The soprano solo of Sir Edward Elgar's setting of "God Save the Queen" will be sung by Hazel Sherratt of Victoria.

The performance will be one of the outstanding religious musical events of the year, marking as well the closing phase of the mourning period for King George VI.

Courtenay Driver Pays Double Fine In City's Court

A Courtenay motorist was fined a total of $100 in police court today on charges of failing to remain at the scene of an accident and careless driving.

Ronald Halls pleaded guilty to both charges and was fined $50 on each.

Police said accused's car was involved in a collision early Sunday at Johnson and Douglas with another car driven by Victor K. Sandford, 129 Island Highway.

Damage to Halls' car was estimated at about $700.

SEED POTATO, LIKE HEN'S TEETH, HARD TO FIND, HARDER TO BUY

The most expensive seed on the market in Victoria today—if you can get it—is potato seed, as scarce as hen's teeth.

Most Victoria seed dealers report they are completely out of certified seed potatoes. Home gardeners are buying up table spuds as substitutes, they said.

The seed potato shortage is not affecting the large grower who orders his supply of seeds well in advance, they said. The home gardener, however, is having a hard time.

The price being paid for potato seed, $10 for 100 pounds—or more—is the highest on record, according to seedmen.

"I've never seen potato seed fetch such a high price," said one dealer. "I got two tons of certified seed from Courtenay on Saturday and by the end of the afternoon they were all gone. They all went to the small grower."

100-Voice Choir To Sing Requiem For Late Monarch

A chorus of over 100 voices will perform Brahms' Requiem in tribute to memory of the late King George VI at Christ Church Cathedral at 2.30 p.m. next Sunday.

The performance will be given by the Victoria Choral Society, under the direction of Graham Steed, conductor. Guest organist will be Charles Palmer.

Philip Watts, baritone, Vancouver, will also take part in the performance.

The soprano solo of Sir Edward Elgar's setting of "God Save the Queen" will be sung by Hazel Sherratt of Victoria.

The performance will be one of the outstanding religious musical events of the year, marking as well the closing phase of the mourning period for King George VI.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves report the ketch behaved perfectly on the long trip, and rode out the only gale encountered without difficulty.

Two years ago, they fished Random II in the tuna and salmon trade, and White Hart is their first experience with sail. They'll use power while fishing, and sail for pleasure and, occasionally, on the way to and from the fishing grounds.

They cleared British West Indies Feb. 4, and reached the Panama Canal March 14.

From the canal they headed well out into the Pacific, to take advantage of prevailing winds—but, according to Tony Reeves "the winds prevailed in the wrong direction" and they used power much of the time.

At their farthest point from shore they were "more than 600 miles from North America, and for four weeks did not sight another ship. The only landing made between Panama and Victoria was on Clarion Island, an uninhabited dot on the chart."

White Hart is 48 feet over-all, 14 feet 6 inches in beam, and draws about six feet, fully loaded. She has a roomy fish-hold aft, and considerably more deck housing than usual on a sailing craft.

The fisherman is fitted with modern navigational aids—radio telephone, direction finder, depth sounder and automatic pilot.

"She sailed herself even without the pilot," Reeves says proudly.

Decision to build the ship in the British West Indies was made to take advantage of native woods, such as the Cayman mahogany used in the framing and greenheart keel.

Mr. and Mrs. Reeves will live in White Hart, and hope to have her fitted with poles and other fishing equipment in time for June's tuna season.

Husband, Wife Sail Here In Indies-Built Ketch

Tony and Bridget Reeves Rigging Vessel For June Tuna Run; Will Live Aboard

Tony and Bridget Reeves, well-known husband and wife commercial fishing team of Victoria, proudly sailed their new ship alongside Fisherman's Wharf today—with 5,787 sea miles on her log.

The ketch-rigged ship is the White Hart, built on Grand Cayman Island, a Jamaican dependency, where her builders made extensive use of tropical hardwoods in her sturdy, built-to-last construction.

Been Storing Up Weight?
Now's the Time to Lose It

She's checking her Nine-day Diet menu against a downtown menu. Many restaurants are co-operating with women who are on the diet. The booklet containing all the menus may be obtained for 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

This is the time of year when women put their coats in storage and take that extra 10 pounds of fat out of storage. That is exactly what the body does when you eat more than you need. It stores the excess in fat on your body—and in the worst possible places—the abdomen, waist, thighs and hips!

With summer coming up you certainly do not need that 10-pound coat of fat any more than you do the fur coat you put away until next winter. Overweight women suffer with the heat more than the slimmer ones do. So you have a double purpose at this time of year, summer comfort and a lovelier figure.

The fact that you can safely and comfortably lose from five to 10 pounds in nine days' time amazes most women, but you can. Thousands of women do this every year with my Nine-day Diet. So hurry along and adopt

Fresh Fruit All Year If Frozen in Container

By PENNY SAVER

Oh, boy! All the luscious food that comes with the warm weather is starting to roll in.

It won't be long before we are deluged with all kinds of fresh berries, and then, before you know it, they're over.

With a little forethought you can have strawberries, raspberries, new peas, tender carrots and numerous other foods all year round.

The solution is simple! Freeze 'em!

With the new plastic freezing containers that I've found, the job should be twice as easy.

A pint container is 45 pennies and a quart, 39 cents.

The lid fits as tight as a drum and on the side of each container is a plaque on which you can write the name of the produce preserved. By the way, when it is emptied the name can be erased and used again.

Dandy container to pack food in for a picnic, too. Start that old mind of your ticking and you'll think of all kinds of uses for a tight-covered container.

Copper, copper, copper!

Everywhere you turn now-a-days you see copper trinkets around the home. In fact a lot of the copperware has outgrown the trinket stage.

It really is attractive around the home, but the problem usually is how to keep it clean. It really has to sparkle to do it full justice.

There is a cleaner that will do the job in a jiffy, so don't hesitate to have copper in your home. The cleaner is 35 cents a tin and will also clean stainless steel and enamel.

Bet that's a load off your mind. I've had several calls lately from people wondering if there was a good cleaner for their copper, so hope this will help all of you.

Home Service Workers Discuss Personality Problems in Home

Professor W. H. Gaddes, psychologist of Victoria College faculty, spoke to Red Cross Home Emergency Service workers at their last meeting of the season.

Informally he discussed personality problems of the nervously disturbed adult or child and how best to meet these in the home and at the same time carry on routine housekeeping duties.

Such anxious were as genuinely symptoms of a type of illness as physical illness, he said, and should be met with a measure of sympathy and understanding.

Mrs. O. H. Rippingale thanked the speaker on behalf of the group.

The meeting, held at Red Cross headquarters, Fort Street, marked the end of the eighth year of home emergency service.

Mrs. C. Day and Mrs. E. M. Nicks, who joined the staff in 1931, are still in the service. Mrs. J. Peart was welcomed back after a serious illness. Supervisor Mrs. R. Coope was in charge of the evening arrangements, and Miss E. Bruce represented the committee.

FIRST DAY

BREAKFAST—Half grapefruit, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Green salad with lemon or reducing dressing, one slice roast lamb (don't eat the fat), one glass skimmed milk, one thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

MID-AFTERNOON—Glass of tomato juice.

DINNER—One piece of lean meat, steak or roast (five or six ounces), one-half cup squash (yellow preferable), one-half cup string beans, one glass skimmed milk, one apple.

If you would like to have my Nine-day Reducing Diet booklet to carry in your pocketbook or keep to refer to later if you wish to repeat the diet, send 10 cents with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Dietitians Use Psychology In Feeding of Sick Children

TORONTO, May 12—Mothers faced with a food problem when their children become ill can take a tip from dietitians at the new hospital for sick children here who combine psychology with nourishment. These dietitians have 500 sick children to feed from infants to 14-year-olds and they employ such devices as small portions with "seconds" encouraged, "bite-size" pieces on the plate for smaller youngsters and meals served at playroom tables, "just like a party," when the patient is out of bed.

Psychology comes into play, too, with children on special diets. The aim here is to make the diet as much like the diet of the other children as possible, said Miss M. Gladys Martin, the hospital's director of food service. "Children are natural conformists. They hate to be made to feel different."

Even with diabetic children—and the hospital had 35 new diabetic patients last year—the rule applies. "We work out their diets so that when they return home they will be able to eat practically the same foods as their families, although—the child's food must be carefully weighed," she said. "This saves the mother from preparing special food for the child and makes the child happier."

Diabetic children return to the hospital's clinic at regular intervals for check-ups and mothers have the opportunity of discussing their food problems with the clinic dietitian.

The mother who thinks her baby is thirsty has no idea how thirsty babies can be until she visits the hospital. Milk, water and orange juice go into 1,500 to 2,000 bottles daily. From the gleaming new stainless steel kitchen comes food for children.

While the kitchen operates with the efficiency of an assembly line, the individual is not overlooked and his needs remain paramount. But service to child patients is not the only job. Those who care for them must be looked after, too. Two modern cafeterias provide 1,600 meals a day for nurses, doctors, staff and employees and a snack room has been set up for the use of visitors. This keeps the 13 hospital dietitians more than busy.

Miss Martin emphasized that there was a constant need for the services of dietitians in large Canadian hospitals and that the need was not confined to large hospitals.

"Today is National Hospital Day and the time to urge more qualified young women to take up the profession of dietetics," she said. "The shortage of dietitians in Canada remains acute and this is reflected in our hospitals where dietitians today play a vital role."

The Canadian Dietetic Association is engaged in a drive to enlist qualified young women to enter the profession and will supply complete information from its headquarters, 415-Bloor Street West, Toronto 4.

A Christening Ceremony

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Metcalfe was named Michael David, in a christening ceremony, yesterday afternoon at Fairfield United Church. Rev. W. W. Allen officiated. Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. David Mackintosh and Mr. Jack Silver. Following the ceremony a tea was held in the Empress Hotel for the tiny principal and for his great-grandmother, Mrs. M. Laird, on Mother's Day. Maternal grandparents of the little lad are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yeamans and on the paternal side, Mr. and Mrs. John Silver.

Co-Hostesses at Shower

Miss Donna Brown and Mrs. H. Painter were co-hostesses at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. J. P. Brown, 602 Battery Street, in honor of Miss Mary Leibhauser, whose marriage takes place this month. The bride-to-be was presented with a gardenia corsage and her mother, Mrs. B. Leibhauser and Mrs. Bruch, mother of the groom-elect, received pink carnations. A basket decorated in blue and pink with lace contained the gifts. Among those present were Mrs. B. Leibhauser, Mrs. Bruch, Mrs. J. P. Brown and Misses Helen Bouvier, Yvonne Bisseker, Florence Sutcliffe, Winnie Fletcher, Ella Bruch, Frances Leibhauser, Jenny Werner, Josephine Tobin, Pat Roissetter, Louise Rosenbury and Shirley Mitchell.

Shower for Marjorie Moore

Miss Marjorie Moore, bride-elect of this month was honored at a shower recently in the Brighton Avenue home of Mrs. G. G. Morris. Miss Joan Morris was co-hostess. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage of red roses and lily of the valley, and her mother, Mrs. T. Moore Sr., and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. W. Wyllie, received pink carnations and mauve stocks, en corsage. Other guests were Misses Laura Manton, Audrey Atkinson, Peggy Cordingley, Lorna Crocker, Joyce Dwyer, Margaret Moore, Heather MacGillivray and Mrs. T. Moore Jr.

Mrs. Mary Stewart has come from Glendale, Calif., to spend the summer months with Miss L. M. A. Savory at Langford Lake.

Mrs. Claude Gardiner returned to her Faithful Street home on Saturday, following a visit of 10 days in Vancouver, where she was guest of her son and daughter-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bulmer, Seattle, and the sister of the groom, Mrs. E. Kerr, and her daughter Penny from Mission, B.C., were out-of-town guests at the Cameron-Keeble wedding Saturday evening in this city.

Mr. Richard Gilbert, a student in forestry at University of British Columbia, who has been staying a few days at Langford, guest of his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bayles, has now left to do timber cruising at Port Renfrew for the summer months.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding of Miss Phyllis Louise Cameron Martin and Mr. Ronald Kenneth Smith last Saturday evening in Victoria included Mr. Stan Love and Mr. Jack Franks of Vancouver; Mr. Elmer Walden, Mr. Gordon Vasson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, parents of the bridegroom, Miss Donna Smith, his sister, all of Melville, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. William Miller, Atkins Road, Langford, are leaving this week on a visit to the mid-west and eastern Canada. They will visit their sons at Shellbrook, Sask., and later, Mrs. Miller will go on to visit relatives in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and Shauvan, Sask. They expect to return in about six weeks time.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Smith, and her sisters, Miss Pearl Smith and Mrs. Shirley Joll, came from Kamloops for the wedding of Miss Maureen Dorothy Smith and Mr. Eric Roy Rossiter last Saturday evening. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Rossiter, Mr. and Mrs. T. Rossiter and Mrs. Pearl Rossiter, all of Tacoma; Mr. and Mrs. E. Bryce, Vancouver, and Mrs. Beaton and her daughter, Pat from Courtenay, V.I.

Kamloops Shares Interest in Week-End Wedding in City

Rev. Moir A. J. Waters officiated at the wedding Saturday evening in First United Church, that united Maureen Dorothy Smith and Eric Roy Rossiter in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Smith, Kamloops, B.C., and the groom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Rossiter, 3155 Wascana Street, Victoria.

During the ceremony organ music was played by Mr. Malcolm Hamilton.

Escorted by her father who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in a ballerina-length gown of brocaded net over nylon net and satin, fashioned with net yoke, lily point sleeves, and full skirt featuring a panel of accordion-pleated nylon net in the front. Her chapel veil was arranged under a halo-headress of brocaded net. A strand of pearls with matching earrings as her only ornament and her colonial bouquet was of red roses and Stephanotis with satin streamers.

Miss Pearl Smith, her sister's only attendant, wore pink nylon net over taffeta in ballerina-length, bandeau of pink feathered carnations and carried a pink colonial bouquet.

The bridegroom had his brother, Mr. Jack Rossiter, as best man, and ushers were Mr. Jack Eaton and Mr. John Pickburn.

The reception was held at Strathcona Hotel, where the

Cameron-Keeble Wedding In Oak Bay United Church

A ceremony in Oak Bay United Church Saturday evening united Kathleen Marie Keeble and Kenneth Walter Cameron in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Keeble, Oliver Street, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cameron, Craigflower Road, Dr. W. W. McPherson officiated.

Mr. Keeble gave his daughter in marriage and organ music was played by Laurence King. She chose a princess style gown of white satin with net yoke touched with Chantilly lace applique. The sheath sleeves came to a lily point and the full skirt cascaded into a cathedral train. A finger-tip veil mistled from a coronet of Chantilly lace with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Marlene Buckle, Vancouver, wore a aqua taffeta dress with fitted bodice falling into circular skirt and topped with a short jacket. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and carnations with matching headress.

Robert Cameron, brother of the groom, was best man and ushers were Maurice Keeble, brother of the bride, and Raymond Orchard, cousin of the groom.

At the reception in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, Walter Fish proposed the toast. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier cake which was cut with a silver cake knife engraved with names of bride and groom.

For a honeymoon on the mainland, the bride wore a mint green knitted dress with forest green accessories topped with a creamy-white shortie coat. Her corsage was talisman roses.

Flowers Decorated Fairfield United for Saturday Wedding

Baskets of spring flowers decorated Fairfield United Church Saturday evening for the marriage ceremony which united Phyllis Louise Cameron Martin, in marriage with Ronald Kenneth Smith.

Rev. W. Allen officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Martin, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Smith, Melville, Sask.

Mrs. Willard Ireland played traditional wedding music as the bride walked up the aisle on the arm of her brother, Don Martin. She wore a gown of imported French Chantilly lace over shimmering satin styled with bouffant double skirt of misty nylon tulle.

Maid of honor Miss Audrey Goodmansson, chose a strapless gown of pink nylon net over pink taffeta with matching jacket of nylon net and taffeta. She complemented her ensemble with a bouquet of roses, lilies, and carnations with matching headress.

Bridesmaids, Miss Val Creelman and Miss Betty Little, wore identical gowns of Chantilly lace with matching bolero jackets. They carried bouquets the same as the maid of honor's with matching headresses.

The little flower girl, Donna Smith, sister of the groom, was gowned in pale blue taffeta and carried a similar bouquet.

Elmer Walden was best man and ushers were Gordon Vasson and Jack Franks.

A three-tier cake centred the bride's table at the reception in Woodsworth Hall. The hall was decorated in pink and white with spring flowers.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in Washington and Oregon the bride donned a two-piece peach wool suit with navy accessories topped with a white coat.

THE DOCTOR ANSWERS

Doctors Sympathetic; Cannot Afford Emotion

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Today's first letter raises an important question.

Q—When you discussed habit spasm in a child, why didn't you suggest that the parents visit a psychiatrist or a psychologist? There may be something in the parents' attitudes or home environment, such as lack of lovingness or too high standards, that is affecting the child. In this day, when even the lay person is aware of proper emotional nutrition, it seems to me that you are guilty of gross negligence. A little more compassion in your heart, which would eventually reflect in your column, might gain you more readers.

A—The writer of this letter has a point. It is indeed possible that a child with habit spasm is suffering from some maladjustment at home and it is also possible that the parents could be taught to recognize what is wrong and correct it with the help of a psychiatrist. The charge of gross negligence, however, is denied, since it is not the function of this column to give specific advice.

Finally, I should like to say a word about human compassion. This fine quality of human beings is not lacking in doctors—far from it. However, in dealing with sick people hour after hour and day after day, a doctor simply cannot allow himself the constant expression of compassion, which others do from time to time, or he would lose his mind. Furthermore, it is agreed from long experience that a doctor's compassion is best shown in the use of judgment based on his training, and too large an emotional factor may seriously influence his judgment. It is for this reason that it is considered inadvisable for doctors to take care of members of their own immediate family in any serious illness.

$100,000 Contract For Observatory Addition Awarded

A federal government contract for construction of a $100,000 addition to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Sanich Mountain has been awarded to Farmer Construction Ltd. here.

The three-story concrete-block building will adjoin the existing observatory office.

It is designed to house the seismograph apparatus for registering earthquakes and will also contain additional scientific and lecture room space.

Contractors have begun preliminary work on the foundations. There is considerable rock removal involved. The building is expected to be completed by the year's end.

Toronto Golds Firm in Slow Market Drop

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—Golds held firmly today against an irregularly declining stock market during the session's close.

Industrial dealings shrank to a small list of selected issues. A few western oils and lower-priced base metals attracted some speculative interest but most movers were moderate. Mid-northern, a western oil, was an outstanding exception as it moved strongly in a turnover of more than 270,000 shares. Activity followed rumors of a successful drilling. Volume totaled 300,000 shares.

Senior golds posted a broad list of gains ranging to about 50 cents. Dome and Giant Yellowknife climbed sharply.

Papers led industrials downward with a scattered list of fractional declines. Utilities, agriculturals, liquors and retail stores slipped but manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues were up. Steels, refineries and banks were mixed.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about three to one. Most declines were moderate, ranging from pennies to about 50 cents.

New York Slow in Low Volume

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—The stock market showed few signs of life today as it lagged toward the session.

Volume ran to around 900,000 shares.

Price changes were mostly fractional and many of them small. Only at intervals were there sizeable changes and for most part they were in traditionally wide movers.

Oil stocks followed the mixed tendencies of other major groups. Texas Co. ahead a fraction of Gulf down slightly.

Youngstown Steel was up a bit, while Bethlehem and Republic lost small fractions.

Advancers were Goodrich, Al Chemical, American Cyanamid, International Paper and Pacific.

Canadian issues were mixed.

Montreal Lower

MONTREAL, May 12 (CP)—Prices continued to edge downward in dull trading near the close today on the stock exchange and curb market.

Papers, beverages, steels, cars and miscellaneous industrials slipped but senior oils held ahead slightly.

Banks traded unchanged. Other metals were mixed.

Famous players, Dominion, Price Brothers, Consolidated, International Petroleum, National Steel, Canadian National Steel, C.P.R. slipped.

Mines traded mixed with ranges ranging from pennies to 30 cents. Turnover was light.

Quebec Labrador strength edged while Frohberg, Dome and Enbridge weakened. Western followed the lower industrial end.

Vancouver Slack

VANCOUVER, May 12—Noon session. Stocks turned over at a low pace in the early session at a new exchange today and is closed mostly unchanged.

Active were York, unchanged 52 on the close; Charter at 52, off 10; Continental down at $2.60, and United unchanged at $2.39.

Some support appeared for mining issues. Estrella at $2.45 as ahead 2; Quatsino at 45 was changed.

London Slow

LONDON, May 12 (Reuters)—Dull conditions prevailed in a stock market today.

Gold edged lost up to one-half in slow dealings and industrials fell away under the leadership of textiles and rays.

End-of-account selling was partly responsible for the downward drift.

Commodity shares came in modest selling with rubbers and coppers especially dull. End-of-account sales depressed Canadian Eagle, Ultramar and Kern, a loss to ninepence off.

Canada Bankers Chief On Tour

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

Cheerful, energetic L. G. Gillett, who this year is president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, arrived in Victoria this week-end after a cross-country look at Canada.

Mr. Gillett, who is vice-president and general manager of the Bank of Toronto, also travelled through part of the United States on his way to the coast.

He reports that he is impressed with the stability and strength of the Canadian business scene in this era of rapid growth.

The new strength of the Canadian dollar on the international market was the subject of frequent American comment, Mr. Gillett reports. He feels that the harder Canadian currency reflects the excellent business and industrial climate in this country.

"The relative advantages which Canada currently enjoys as an attractive area for capital investment are recognized in the States and elsewhere, Mr. Gillett points out.

As a result of the favorable investment conditions here, there has been no slackening in the volume of capital investment coming in from the United States and elsewhere, he adds.

He makes the point, however, that it is that the U.S. and other countries think of Canada, rather than what we think of them, which lends strength to our currency.

WINNIPEG, May 12 (CP)—Gains were recorded in barley, flax and rye today on the Winnipeg grain exchange with some commercial demand, including export buying in both barley and rye.

rely considering financial offers from substantial U.S. tungsten interests, Mr. Mason says.

The Manitoba Federation of Agriculture called on the federal government to place price supports under poultry meats because otherwise poultry producers will "suffer very serious losses."

The appeal was made by J. P. McLean, executive secretary of the M.F.A., who noted that prices received by Manitoba producers have fallen by as much as 25 per cent.

McLean said the industry was suffering from "competition from lowered beef and pork prices, combined with heavy inventories and loss of export markets."

"There was much feverish buying in 1951 with the result that our backlog of business was higher than we usually experience," says R. H. Davis, president of Atlas Steels Ltd., in reporting on the company's first quarter operations for this year.

"We are now drifting back to more normal conditions," he adds, "and we find that quite a number of customers have large inventories, which slows up buying."

"Interest rates," said Mr. Gillett, "look quite strong at the moment. They certainly aren't going down. On the whole, this indicates a healthy balance between the supply of money and the demand for it in Canada."

In British Columbia particularly, which is moving ahead faster than other sections of the country, the Canadian banks have a job to do in supplying services, Mr. Gillett said.

He felt that the banks would be able to do this job by opening new branches wherever the growth of new business warranted.

Endicott Denies Blaming Canada

Toronto Rally Hears Peace Congress Head Reiterate Charge U.S. Waging Germ Warfare

TORONTO, May 12 (CP)—Dr. James G. Endicott claims that germ warfare is being used against the Communists in Asia. But he denies saying that Canada is taking part in it.

Speaking to an estimated 8,000 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday night for the closing ceremonies of a three-day Canadian Peace Congress rally, Dr. Endicott, chairman of the leftist body, directed his reply to External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson had been asked in a Commons committee about recent Moscow radio reports which quoted Dr. Endicott as "confirming" that United Nations forces are waging bacteriological warfare on Red China.

The external affairs minister said he would question the former United Church missionary, then on a tour of Red China. Dr. Endicott served as a missionary in China for 22 years. He returned home five years ago.

QUOTES ARTICLE

Dr. Endicott told the audience: "It is alleged that I on my own authority implicated Canada in germ warfare."

"I did not. I gave an honest answer to honest questions about an article in the Montreal Standard on Canada's work for germ war. I did not take the article to China."

"It appeared at length in the Chinese press. The article, as I have already said, claimed that the head of Canada's Defense Board told Gerald Waring that 'the future of death on a mass scale is very bright.'"

"It said: 'Canada is doing significant work which will be used by our senior partners.'"

"Two weeks ago, Dr. Endicott said in London during a telephone interview with The Canadian Press that he had not implicated Canada in germ warfare. He said he had made 'no statement [that] I had knowledge the insects were bred in Canada.'"

Dr. Endicott told last night's meeting that if any member of the parliamentary committee feels 'the article by Mr. Waring has done Canada an injustice, they are at liberty to write fully to the New China News Agency and set the matter right.'"

He told of his visit to northeast China where he said he saw the effects of "large-scale. United States germ warfare being carried out against the Chinese people."

He said he saw and collected many germ-bearing insects and their containers dropped from American planes. He claimed he visited farmers and saw the people being inoculated against diseases.

"I was surprised to see how quickly the Chinese people have organized themselves against this attack," he said.

At an earlier session of the Congress, the germ warfare charges were repeated by several other speakers.

14 Victorians Nursing Grads In Psychiatry

Fourteen Victorians were among 152 psychiatric nurses who have graduated in New Westminster.

The nurses, all male, have completed a three-year course at the province's school of psychiatric nursing which is operated in conjunction with the provincial mental health services.

All the Victorians were trained at the Provincial Mental Home, Colquitz. The others were trained at Essondale.

Victorians who graduated were George Archer, 1209 Palmer Road; Frank Frost, 236 Acorn Avenue; Cyril Godwin, 3119 Admirals Road; A. A. Humphries, 1280 Hastings Street; Horace Goad, 1989 Glyn Road; Hollie Henson, 21 Helmcken Road; Richard Eilton, Helen Road; Jack Jowett, Wilkinson Road; Kenneth Knott, 946 Forshaw Road; John Piatzke, 1985 Hughes Road; Albert Rigler, 851 Short Street; Arnold Sadler, 2731 Fernwood Road; Paul Tempest, 1171 Newport Avenue, and Joseph Whipple, 998 Violet Avenue.

All are now entitled to place the letters "Psych. N." after their names.

At the graduating ceremonies in New Westminster, Miss Margaret Robertz, R.N., Royal Jubilee Hospital, received in absentia her diploma for completion of the six months' post-graduate course for registered nurses.

RED CHINA 'GOOD MARKET' SAYS MONTREAL ECONOMIST

HONG KONG, May 12 (Reuters).—Morris Miller, Canadian economist and representative of a Montreal textile firm, said here Saturday Communist China is a "good market" for Canadian goods.

He arrived here from China Saturday with members of a private business delegation which visited China after attending last month's international economic conference in Moscow.

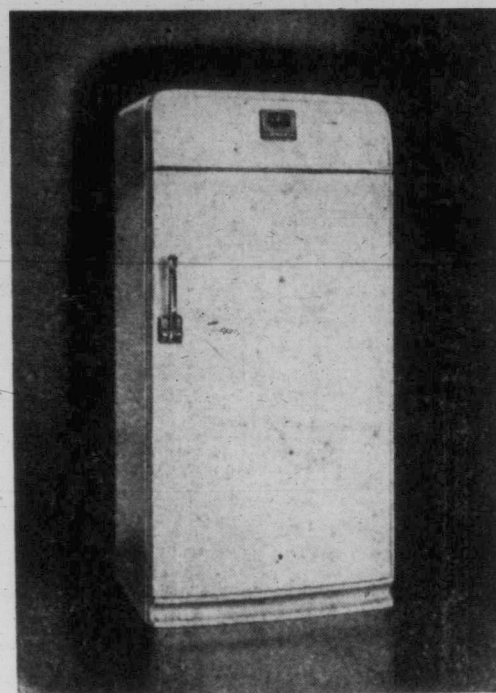

"I do not see why we should create tension by banning trade," he said. "It would be better for both sides if we carry on business as before."

Press Gets Rough Treatment at 'Peace' Congress

TORONTO, May 12 (CP).—The peace rally sponsored by the Canadian Peace Congress at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday night included a number of not-so-peaceful incidents. Several times during the 2½-hour program, minor skirmishes broke out when some of the audience, estimated at 8,000, voiced objections to speeches. Disturbances were greeted by special bands of "ushers" who "escorted" the hecklers from the building. The hushers sported arm bands bearing the word "committee." They had an arduous evening. Several times they rushed high into the "blues" to oust groups of youths who took exceptions to speakers' remarks. However, police kept the action from becoming too hot by separating the parties concerned and clearing the section. At one point, newspaper men and photographers on the floor in front of the speakers' platform attempted to leave their section and get to a disturbance in a corridor. They were greeted by a locked gate and a group of the "bouncers" barring their way. When several photographers attempted to climb over the boards they were manhandled by the "committee men" with threats of broken cameras. Police prevented an outbreak as reinforcements of reporters and young leftists flocked to the scene. With police standing by, the gate remained open the rest of the evening. Several groups of university students were frisked by ushers as they entered the Gardens. Others reported they were asked to leave even before settling in their seats.

B.C. VOTERS GO TO POLLS MONTH TODAY

By the Canadian Press
British Columbia goes to the polls in a general election one month from today. In the speaking time left to them the politicians are going to range across the province to see that the voters know what the balloting's about.

After taking a week-end break to attend the opening of the Kenney Dam at Nechako, Premier Johnson will speak to night at Trail. Progressive Conservative leader Herbert Anscomb will be at Vernon and C.C.F. leader Harold Winch at Kelowna.

Mr. Winch wound up the first 1,200 mile week of a two-week tour through the southern interior Saturday at Fernie by helping to restrain a young Liberal from punching a heckler.

The fun started when Mr. Winch expressed "amazement" that veteran Tom Upphill would allow himself to become "the stooge of the Liberals and Communists."

He said Mr. Upphill, much as he was revered, was playing the game of capitalists, to keep out the only working-class party, the C.C.F., with his new

"pseudo" Labor party. He said Mr. Upphill's new Labor party was formed by "men formerly in the Communist party, some in the Labor-Progressive party and other men who campaigned for Gordon Wismer."

"Life," shouted Sam English, president of the Michel Miners' Union.

Later, he shouted, "Mr. Winch is a liar and he can sue me if he wants." Still later: "You're a liar."

A youth in the audience jumped up and started swinging at Mr. English but was physically restrained by Mr. Winch.

At a Pentecost meeting, Allan McDowell, Progressive Conservative candidate in Vancouver Centre, repeated his former statement that Premier Johnson will resign as soon as the election is over.

FINAL BULLETINS

Vancouver Grain Workers May Strike

VANCOUVER, May 12 (CP)—A strike which would tie up Vancouver's grain shipping industry threatened today. About 220 workers in five wheat elevators, four in Vancouver and one in New Westminster, said they will strike Saturday unless they get a 30-cents-an-hour wage increase and a 40-hour week.

C.C.F. Criticizes Meat Deal

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—The national executive of the C.C.F. today described Canada's meat deal with the United Kingdom as "inadequate" and urged the federal government to seek long-term bacon and cheese agreements with the U.K. At the same time it criticized the government for failing to eliminate the four-per-cent floor on medical expenses for income tax purposes.

Yanks' Tom Morgan Accepted

NEW YORK, May 12 (AP)—Tom Morgan, New York Yankee pitcher, today was accepted for army service. The date of his call to service will depend on his local draft board at El Monte, Calif.

Kidnapped Seattle Girl Safe

SEATTLE, May 12 (AP)—A kidnapped 13-year-old girl, whose abductor left in her parents' mail box a crude ransom note demanding $4,000, was found terrified but apparently otherwise unharmed north of the city limits today. Linda Lambeth, daughter of Mrs. William L. Carlin, was lying on a roadside, dazed and hysterical, when police located her.

Pearson Blasts Red Sympathizers

OTTAWA, May 12 (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, in a blast obviously aimed at Dr. James Endicott, today castigated as dupes of Moscow those Canadians who will "propagate any lie, however vicious, which is uttered against their own country and its friends on behalf of Soviet Communist imperialism."

He said in the Commons that charges that the United Nations is making germ warfare on China are utterly false.

Soccer Leaders Argue Over Team Selection

By BILL WALKER, Times Sports Editor

A searing attack on B.C. Football Association officials by George Eade, manager of Victoria United of the Coast Soccer League, today over policy regarding the selection of a team to play Tottenham Hotspurs here June 2, drew a prompt and equally withering reply today from Pat Mulcahy, Mulcahy is Island commissioner of the B.C.F.A.

Eade charged B.C.F.A. officials with possible "disruption of United as a club that has been winning on team spirit as well as its football ability" by not acceding to a request of United to meet Tottenham as a unit, rather than part of an all-star club. "Any dissension in football ranks" over the selection of an all-star team "is coming from within Victoria United and not from without," Mulcahy replied.

"Tours of this nature are conducted on a basis of soccer promotion," Mulcahy added. "It is not a club matter at all, a unit, rather than part of an all-star club. "The policy of picking an all-star club from the Island is not disrupting United in any way. All members of the team can train with the all-stars, and were told that in Sunday's meeting," Mr. Mulcahy continued.

GIVEN ULTIMATUM

Mulcahy also revealed that following a meeting of United players last week, he was approached by Eade and given what was tantamount to an ultimatum: "It is the desire of United to play as a team or we don't play." "Vancouver officials of the B.C.F.A. were notified of United stand," Mulcahy continued, "and realizing the possible repercussions, Coast League president Jock Hendry attempted to contact Eade to advise him of the seriousness of the situation. "It left the commission no alternative," Mulcahy said, referring to the possible suspension of United.

"When informed of this decision, Eade unconditionally withdrew the request on behalf of the team. "However," Mulcahy continued, "persistent rumors which could not be ignored continued to crop up during the past week and Sunday's meeting was called for a showdown."

"Some members of United present—50 per cent of those in attendance—persisted in their stand. But when told they would be suspended for such action, and on their return said they would meet the requirement of the commission. Mulcahy also pointed out that manager Dave Turner of the all-stars has decreed that the all-star team must train as a unit. "Turner took a very positive stand on the issue," Mulcahy said.

"It is our aim to provide a truly representative team and the best team from Courtenay south," Mulcahy asserted. "Every one will be given an equal opportunity. We will not be dictated to."

Three Found Shot

Bodies of Ontario Trio in Gully

LONDON, Ont., May 12 (CP)—The sharp eyes of a nine-year-old boy led to the discovery of three persons shot to death in a lonely gully near the Muncy Indian Reserve.

Dead are Mrs. Lydia Riley, 64, of Muncy; her niece, Mrs. Beatrice Henry, about 30, and her husband, Herman, about 32, of Christina.

A party of London fishermen found Mrs. Riley's body which had two wounds in the chest and one in the head. The boy, Billie Morrylees, found the body after he spotted the bright-green of a woman's dress in the drab underbrush from the car in which he was riding. The side road runs along the gully, just north of the reserve, 15-miles southwest of London.

Several hundred feet away, the other two bodies were found by Harold Whiting, of Muncy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Henry had bullet wounds over the heart.

Police said there were indications the bodies of Henry and his wife had been dragged into the gully, opening the possibility they had been shot some distance from the gully.

The bodies were sent to Victoria Hospital, London, where post-mortems were conducted by Dr. John Fisher, pathologist.

Police disclosed no motive for the slayings and there were no reports of the weapon used being found. They moved into the reserve last night and about six officers were working on the case.

One Killed as 30,000 Parade Against Pact

BONN, Germany, May 12 (AP)—West Germany's impending peace contract brought a bloody week-end battle to industrial Essen and reports today that East Germany's Communist rulers are getting ready for a drastic set-up in the cold war against the west and tighter Russian-East German ties.

One young Communist was killed in the Essen riot, in which police gunfire broke up a clash between anti-Reds and 30,000 Communist-led youths demonstrating against plans to rearm West Germany for Western defense. Scores of demonstrators were injured and several were arrested.

Here in the capital, meanwhile, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer met with rebellious leaders from his government Coalition forces. Their opposition to the peace pact threatens its chances of ratification by the West German Parliament.

Despite Adenauer's urging, the opponents were reported still adamant that Britain, the United States and France concede more before West German troops are furnished for the projected European army. The Allies already have said they have gone as far as they will.

As the talks on the peace contract continued in Bonn, informed east-zone sources in Berlin said that Communist-surrounded metropolises has been chosen by the Russian and East German leaders as the focal point of their campaign against the Western agreement.

These sources anticipated that the East German government may soon demand the unification of divided Berlin and withdrawal of all occupation forces from the metropolis. This, the sources added, may be accompanied by "drastic measures" against West Berlin.

They predicted also that East Germany soon may be declared a "people's democracy" like other Soviet satellites and that its government may be shaken up to weed out anyone not in accord with the full Sovietization of the east zone.

$30,000 Loss In Hospital Fire at Tofino

TOFINO, B.C., May 12 (BUP)—The nurses' quarters at the Tofino General Hospital was being converted into temporary quarters for patients today following a $30,000 fire which destroyed the main hospital building early Sunday.

Quick work by delegates attending a Masonic lodge meeting at the community on the west coast of Vancouver Island prevented loss of life. The Masons and nearby residents removed all patients and movable articles from the lower floor of the three-story building.

The Tofino fire brigade was reinforced by firemen from Ucluelet.

As soon as the nurses' residence was out of danger, staff doctors and other willing volunteers began converting the building into a temporary hospital.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Trading at Vancouver slowed to a crawl in the late session today and a wide list of stocks barely turned over.

Some slight interest in western oils and scattered trading in base metals left prices mostly unchanged.

Among the oils, Atlantic was $7.15, Charter $2.20, Del Rio $2.80, Okalta $4.30 and York $1.

Who Will Succeed Stalin as Leader Of Cominform? Purges Cause Rumors

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 12 — In the midst of conflicting reports about the failing health of Joseph Stalin, ruler of Soviet Russia and world Communism, the 72-year-old dictator turned up in Moscow this spring for a rare public appearance. Dispatches, cleared by Soviet censors, said the premier looked fit and vigorous. But it was the first time he had been seen in Moscow since the Lenin memorial meeting in January.

A satellite diplomat who saw him then said afterward that Stalin seemed aged, tired and ravaged by disease. It is a known fact that he is suffering from a heart ailment. Soviet experts in Europe believe the rumors about his failing health are probably true.

Apparently he is not well enough to make his usual frequent winter trips to Moscow from his retreat at Sochi, 700 miles away on the Black Sea. Even top-level Politburo conferences are reported to be held there now.

Stalin is a Georgian, one of a sturdy half-primative people that boasts more centenarians than any other of the numerous nationalities that make up the Soviet Union. But even Georgians are mortal.

Should Stalin die who is likely to succeed him as ruler of world communism? Who in the Communist underworld can inherit the legendary glory with which the master of the Kremlin surrounded himself during his lifetime?

As yet, little credible information has come out of the secret chambers of the Kremlin. But the Cominform underworld, where the grapevine is frequently faster and more accurate than the controlled press—is seething with rumor.

Members of Stalin's immediate entourage are reported to be cautiously manoeuvring in anticipation of his death. There is even talk of a schism in the all-powerful Politburo.

as the man designated by Stalin as his successor. But he was held responsible by Georgi M. Malenkov—another rising candidate for the Red throne—for the break between Marshall Tito and Stalin. As Cominform chief Zhdanov apparently failed to "liquidate" Tito in time.

The 50-year-old Zhdanov died suddenly in 1948 under mysterious circumstances. Two entirely different communiques announcing his death were issued by the Kremlin—one within a few hours of the other.

A top French Communist leader has since told me that Zhdanov committed suicide. The Frenchman himself was involved in the Stalin-Tito "affair." Zhdanov chose suicide rather than fight it out and eventually face an M.V.D. firing squad.

A bloody purge of "Zhdanovists" in Russian and in the Cominform followed.

With Zhdanov dead, three members of the Politburo are considered likely successors to Stalin—Vyacheslav M. Molotov, Georgi M. Malenkov and Lavrenti P. Beria.

They are the most powerful men in the Politburo. They are part of Stalin's "inner cabinet" charged with the conduct of Russia's global hot-cold war. Together, or separately, it is they who will decide the question of world peace or world war should the aged and ailing dictator die.

Stalin has been acting as a sort of fatherly "moderator" between the warring factions.

By resorting to his traditional "zig-zag tactic," Stalin has managed to rotate his three crown princes in the limelight without, however, giving any one of them too much power inside the Politburo.

The aging dictator obviously wants to prevent the type of coup d'etat he himself engineered when Lenin was on his deathbed.

Tomorrow: Molotov, "The Hammer."

'Course Alcan an' Mr. Kenney couldn't hev foreseen it, but it's tough t' be labelled in th' middle of an election campaign as "that dam man."

Anscomb ain't th' only political speaker who's left his audience in th' dark. Except in Herb's case it was due t' a power failure.

Still think th' best o' th' Home Products was them purty gals.
